

turn INDIFFERENCE to LOVE

Wins man who said

"I want unpainted kisses"

SHE knew the minute she met him that he was the man of her dreams. But he did not seem attracted to her. It was her own brother who guessed what was wrong. "Stop using a lipstick that makes you look painted," he said. Then she switched to Tangee. It can't make lips look painted... it isn't paint.

LOOKS ORANGE—ACTS ROSE

In the stick Tangee looks orange. But put it on and you'll see it change on your lips to the natural shade of rose most becoming to you. Instead of a greasy coating, Tangee becomes a very part of you... hence is longer-lasting than ordinary "paint" lipsticks. Tangee's special cream base soothes and softens, prevents lips from drying or chapping. Also in Theatrical, a deeper shade for professional use.

UNTOUCHED—Lips left untouched are apt to have a faded look... make the face seem older.

PAINTED—Don't risk that painted look. It's coarsening and men don't like it.

TANGEE—Intensifies natural color, restores youthful appeal, ends that painted look.

Tangee Cream Rouge is really waterproof. Will not streak or wash away, ideal for sports use. Its cream base protects your skin against drying or chapping. Matches Tangee Lipstick and like it changes to your individual coloring.

CHECKS ARE IN FRONT IN THIS SEASON'S PARADE

Jackets Are Shorter, Many Being Fitted Through Waistline Like Bellboy's Coat—
Full-Sleeved Boxy Suits With Patched Pockets Popular With Young Misses

BY MARIAN YOUNG

NEW YORK.—Take a hand in fashion's spring suit deal and you'll probably come out with a check. If not, then with plaid or that old classic favourite, navy blue. Grey, brown, black, rose-beige are very much in the colour race, too, but, in the main, checks are leaders.

Patterns little, patterns big, patterns medium—you suit yourself but you stay on the square, selecting clear, geometric figured fabrics.

You'll like this year's two-piece, short-jacketed numbers. The little coats are a bit shorter, saving the price of a separate coat. Or she varying between wrist and hip-length. Many may get a reefer ensemble with skirt and only are fitted through the waistline after the manner of bellboy's coats. In this category are luxurious, dressmaker's types, some fur-trimmed, often with rippling revers of fox. And here, also, are the greatest number of windblown effects.

If your suit jacket is belted across the front with all fullness massed across your middle, you look as though you had been running away from a tornado.

A practical girl is likely to get enthusiastic about the three-piece suit with an extra top-coat that can be worn over silk dresses on crisp spring days and cool summer evenings, thus numbers. The little coats are a bit shorter, saving the price of a separate coat. Or she varying between wrist and hip-length. Many may get a reefer ensemble with skirt and only are fitted through the waistline after the manner

A Spring suit (left) of navy and white checked flannel features a built-up skirt and a sailor collar. The blouse is white silk pique.

The dressmaker ensemble (below) of soft greyish beige silk crepe has a long-sleeved dress and matching jacket, trimmed with fox collar. The swaggar suit (right) of beige with brown pipings is fashioned of a soft woollen that looks hand-knit.

novel ideas as sewed-in vests that button across your chest and make you seem to be wearing a separate vest as well as a coat and skirt. Most of them are double-breasted with wide revers, belts across the backs.

Boxy suits for town and country are sure to please the younger miss. Try slipping into a plaid dress with boxy, three-quarters coat in monotone and see if it doesn't give you an air. Or reverse the order, checked coat with plain dress, and step out! But insist on huge patch pockets with rather full sleeves. Add a couple of harmonizing separate dresses, and you've practically a wardrobe.

Suit skirt lengths? About the same—with interesting pleats across the back or in both front and back, giving complete freedom for walking.

What to wear with your suit? A decorative blouse in crepe or novelty cotton, colourful twin sweaters or a knitted shirtwaist, depending on the type of suit. And don't forget a scarf!

BRITISH REVIVAL

THE GOVERNMENT'S ACHIEVEMENTS

London, Apr. 28. The President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Runciman, expressed optimistic views on National recovery in a speech at Cardiff last night.

He claimed for the National Government a measure of credit for seventeen achievements. These were: Balancing the budget and remitting 6d off income tax; repayment of millions on the Unemployment Insurance Fund; restoration of economy cuts to unemployed; saving of about £40,000,000 in annual interest charges by conversion operations; helping industrial organisation and local authorities by cheapening money; making money available at a lower rate than for two generations; arranging

ing trade agreements that had lowered tariffs in foreign markets (he had signed nine agreements); and seven more were being negotiated; nearly 700,000 more people at work and those employed in many trades had more work to do than a year or two ago; a steady rise in industrial securities and dividends reappearing; an improvement in the iron and steel trade; a slight improvement in coal, mainly in the North; the passing of an Act stimulating the production of motor spirit from coal and other indigenous products; legislation helping agriculture, and bold experiments in organised marketing; the passing of the greatest town and country planning Act in history; more done towards rehousing than by any previous Government; opening of the greatest crusade against slums ever attempted in any country; a great piece of constructive social reform, namely the Unemployment

Insurance Bill, about to be made law.

Referring to shipping, Mr. Runciman said that if the Government was going to assist, their help should be not only for ship-owners, but also for officers and crews.—British Wireless.

Fighting For Power
London, Apr. 29. An important article by Mr. Stanley Baldwin in the monthly journal, Liberal National Review, pleads against the return of party warfare.

Between the Left demanding Dictatorship and the Right advocating autocracy there are, perhaps, six parties competing for votes, says Mr. Baldwin. There is a grave danger that Socialism, controlled by extremists and strongly tainted by Communism, will return to Power.

Only the maintenance of the National Government can consolidate the gains of the past two years.—Our Own Correspondent.

A GUILD STATE

NEW CONSTITUTION OF AUSTRIA

Vienna, Apr. 29.

An official account of the new constitution of the Austrian "Guild State" has been given to the Press by Dr. Otto Ender, Minister for Constitutional Reform.

The statement shows that, in case of failure of the proposed Federal Council to act on Government Bills, the Government is empowered to proclaim emergency martial law.

The word "Republic" has been dropped from the official title of the State, and it is believed that laws against the Hapsburgs will be omitted from the new constitution.—Reuter.

CHAPTER XXXV

Pablito, returning from town that afternoon, raised his eyes from the dusty road to see an Englishman who appeared to be wandering aimlessly.

"Are you looking for the gymnasium?" he asked.

"No, I'm waiting for a friend who is doing a bit of sparring. Are you (the Englishman eyed the young man intently) Juanito? I mean Señor Juanito?"

"I'm Juanito," Pablito answered. He liked the appearance of this stranger. He had never seen anyone quite like him before at the gymnasium. Nevertheless he was rather surprised to hear himself adding, "Would you care to come to my rooms to wait for your friend? I'd be glad to have you."

"Thank you," Sir Aubrey answered. "You're most kind."

"I live over that shop," Pablito explained with a wave of his hand. Together they crossed the road and went up the long stairway. At the top Sir Aubrey looked about.

"Snug place you have here," he said approvingly.

"A little bare," Pablito answered. "Ah, well, a man's castle. I hear you go in a bit for boxing?"

"A bit," Pablito answered, smiling. Then he asked, "Will you have a drink?"

Sir Aubrey murmured, "Ah, thanks awfully! That would be good, you know!"

Pablito rang a small hand bell and a slovenly criada appeared. "What is it?" Pablito asked Sir Aubrey.

"Eh? What?" the other questioned.

"I mean what'll you have?" Pablito translated.

"Oh, I see. A whiskey and soda?"

"I'll have one with you," Pablito agreed. "It will be a rare dispensation for me. I take a drink only about once a year. Have to go slow to keep in training, you know."

"Oh, quite!"

Pablito felt suddenly warmed for the first time since he had received Estelle's note. The lank, lean Englishman's eyes were fixed on the youth unmovingly. They were frankly, almost pitifully affectionate eyes. Pablito was conscious of a strange feeling that most people have known at one time or another—a feeling that makes it seem as if, living, we have stepped into an unreal dream.

"Hang it!" he thought. "What's come over me?" To the stranger he said, "Is this your first trip to Cuba?"

"No, I've been here once before."

"Like it here?"

"No. To be frank, I don't like it much. Have you ever been in England?"

"No," Pablito answered.

"Ah, you must come! You must come!" The criada appeared as Sir Aubrey was speaking, bringing glasses, a syphon and a squat, brown bottle on a tarnished tray.

She set the tray on the table and disappeared from the room. There was the bubbling spurt from the syphon and Pablito tendered Sir Aubrey his drink. He was surprised to note that the older man's hand shook. He had thought him to be "in good shape."

Glass in hand, Pablito motioned Sir Aubrey to a chair and then sat down himself. Sir Aubrey began to speak of England—the hedges, the lanes, the order and quiet. He spoke of houses which grew more beautiful as they were lived in year after year; of great trees; of all that was to him most beautiful in the land of his fathers, the only land where he could do more than exist.

"I think I'd like it," Pablito said as Sir Aubrey's voice dropped away. "Some times it seems to me that all my life I've been hunting a sort of permanence which is always just out of reach. I haven't had much—to go on—"

He saw Sir Aubrey's eyes fill and was surprised and embarrassed by the sight.

"You must come—whenever you're over there—to visit me at my place at Lower Girtinas," Sir Aubrey said with a shaken eagerness. He set his glass on the tray again because the increased trembling of his hand did not permit him to hold it steadily. This boy was his son! This splendidly strong, tall youth with the steady, even look. He wanted intensely to lay his arm across Pablito's broad shoulders. Instead he must sit and sip his drink. Some day, however—

"Refreshing," he said as he finished the whiskey and soda. "No end refreshing. Thanks awfully. You—enjoy living here?"

"Oh, I guess so," Pablito answered slowly. He added with more energy in his tone, "I like Cuba."

"You know, I'm keenly interested in Cuban houses—"

"Want to look over this apartment?" Pablito offered.

"Oh, I say, that's no end kind of you—if you don't mind!"

"This is my sleeping room," Pablito said a few minutes later. Sir Aubrey paused at the doorway.

A little later he and Pablito stood at the door of the gymnasium to meet the perspiring and anguished Billings. Seeing Billings, Pablito smiled for the first time since the ache had settled in his heart the night before.

"Your friend doesn't seem too happy," he said. Sir Aubrey guffawed loudly. Later as he and Billings were about to leave Sir Aubrey clung to Pablito's hand.

"I hope you'll come again," Pablito said, a trifle ill at ease.

"As friends," Billings promised after a groan. "As friends!"

As atoms spring together after separation and as certain elements in chemical laboratories can not be kept apart, so human groups seem destined to inter-weave.

Jim Field suggested to Marcia Treadway that she become a member of a group he was inviting for a yacht cruise. "I've got to get Estelle away," he said with a deepening of the worried line that was now almost permanently etched between his coarse, heavy eyebrows. "I've got to divert her."

"She has rather a one-track mind, I'm afraid," Marcia stated.

"Um—I don't know. She's young."

"Yes, but determined."

"Well, she'll have to get over it. She'll have to let go of her old ideas, Marcia, will you come?"

"I haven't anything else to do," she answered, thereby accepting the invitation.

"I'm going to take young Alec Davis," Field went on. "I hope I hope very much that he and Estelle will make a match of it."

"So you're beginning that?" she questioned with a lazy smile.

"Well, help it along where you can," he entreated. "You can do that much, can't you?"

Oh, I suppose so," she agreed.

Carlito, another human atom of the group of which Jim Field was the centre, heard of the sailing of the Field yacht. His mother, a toothless old crone, told him about it as they sat in her kitchen. She was holding Carlito's son in her arms.

"Already," she said, relief making her tone bright, "they are well at sea!"

"But he will come back," said Carlito who had sworn vengeance with all the hot fury of which a Latin is capable.

"Ah, my son!" the old woman murmured sadly. Carlito made no answer. Again in his mind he was stooping over his young wife who had lain in the dust. Again he was calling her futilely, again feeling her growing coldness within his arms.

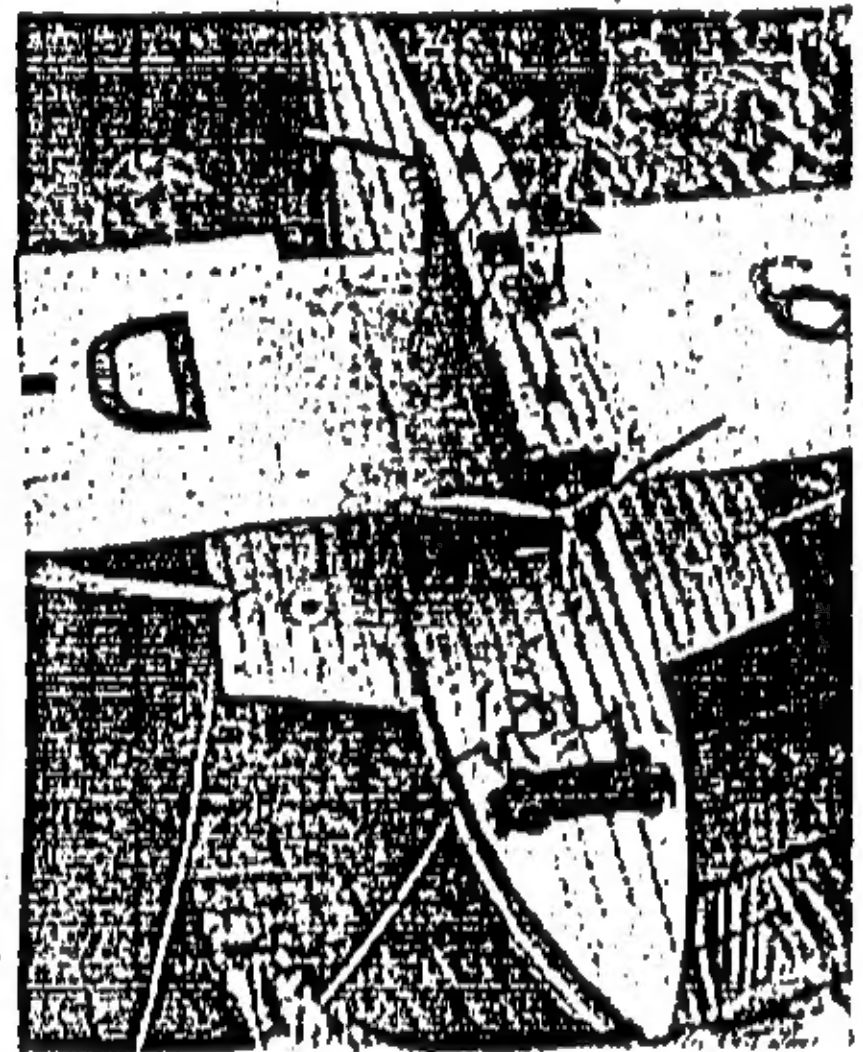

"See the child!" said Carlito's mother. "He is to be a strong boy who will give you much happiness."

Carlito looked absently at his son who, with Field, had killed her. He would go to Field when the man was alone. He would torture him a little while and then—

Carlito smiled and his mother, seeing the smile, was heartened. "Ah," she said, lifting the baby, "there is much in the world—even for the sorriest of us—to make the life of the lips."

"Yes," Carlito agreed. "Each of us has his dream!"

PAPAL DELEGATE.

ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION AT CLUB DE RECREIO

An enthusiastic gathering of Catholics attended the reception at the Club de Recreio yesterday morning in honour of the Papal Delegate, Monsignor Zanin, who is making a short visit to the Colony prior to proceeding North.

Earlier in the morning, His Excellency paid a visit to Rosary Church, where he presided at the Low Pontifical Mass and administered the Papal Blessing.

On arrival at the Club de Recreio, he was received by a Guard of Honour comprising the Catholic Cathedral Troop of Boy Scouts, and was escorted to the head of the room, the Band of the St. Louis Industrial School playing the Papal Anthem.

Depositing for the President of the Club, Chev. J. M. Alves, who was prevented by illness from attending, Mr. F. H. Barnes extended the welcome and homage of the very large gathering present.

Address of Welcome.

It is said that after the foundation of this Colony in 1841 the first Prefect Apostolic, Father Theodore Joset, was appointed, and from that year to 1867 the Administration of the Mission was under a Prefect Apostolic. In 1874 Monsignor Timoleon Raimondi was appointed First Vicar Apostolic. The great majority of Hongkong Catholics in the early days of the Colony were Portuguese from Macao, who, in coming here in search of a living, brought with them the faith of their forefathers.

Under the guidance of Bishop Raimondi, the nucleus of Catholic Action, so fondly cherished by our Holy Father, Pope Pius XI, was established at the old Cathedral in Wellington Street, where there were housed a Catholic Circle, the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, the Confraternity of the most Blessed Sacrament, the Apostleship of Prayer and a Catholic Debating Society. With the passing of time, our Cathedral was removed to its present site, and under the able guidance of the late Monsignor Aloysius Piazzoli, Catholic Associations continued to show increased activity.

On the death of Bishop Piazzoli, the administration of this Vicariate was taken over by our late lamented Prelate, Monsignor Dominic Pozzoni. The years that he had spent as a young priest in the labours of the Mission field singularly fitted that beloved pastor for the high office to which he was then called by our Holy Father the Pope. Aided by a body of zealous clergy, his administration was marked with success in all branches of the Mission's work. He was truly loved by all, and the Catholics of this Colony still mourn his untimely death on February 20, 1924.

It was with extreme joy that we received the nomination as Bishop of another zealous worker in the Mission field, in the person of our

MARYSE HILTZ FLIGHT TO PARIS FROM SAIGON

Paris, Apr. 29.

Mlle. Maryse Hiltz arrived at Le Bourget to-day, breaking the women's record for a flight from Saigon to Paris. Her time was five days, nine hours, eight minutes.

Mlle. Hiltz, in setting this new record, was returning to Paris from her second flight to Tokyo. United Press.

According to Reuter, Mlle. Hiltz's time was five days, ten hours, forty minutes.

present esteemed Vicar Apostolic, Monsignor Henry Vallorta, who was consecrated on June 13, 1926.

Our constant prayers and thoughts will follow Your Excellency in your Apostolic labours and in tendering to you to-day a welcome to this Colony and to China, we pray you to transmit to our Holy Father the most dutiful homage of the Catholics of Hongkong.

Praying that you will bestow on us the Papal blessing, we remain Your Excellency's obedient children in Jesus Christ.

An illuminated scroll in vellum containing the Address of Welcome, the excellent work of Mr. E. Baptista, was presented to the Papal Delegate, amidst applause.

The Papal Delegate, replying in Italian, expressed his thanks for the charming reception and for the good wishes accompanying it.

He spoke on a tendency to regard church-going and worship as something non-essential, beside a view that common-sense in the direction of one's own spiritual life was sufficient in itself. That was an error, he said, which the Church with all its experiences, had been endeavouring to overcome. It was to Rome, the ancient centre of Christianity, that they must look for the light.

The speaker concluded by extending to those present the Papal Blessing.

Amongst those present were Monsignor Henry Vallorta, Vicar Apostolic of Hongkong; the Italian Consul-General, Signor Blinconi; Rev. Fr. G. T. Byrne, head of the Jesuit Mission; Rev. Fr. Neval, Head of the Spanish Dominican Mission; Rev. Fr. Souvet, of the French Mission; Etrangeres; representatives of the Maryknoll American Mission and other bodies, and about 500 members of the Catholic community, including a large proportion of womenfolk.

The Reception Committee was composed of Rev. Chev. J. M. Alves, President of the Club de Recreio; Mr. E. V. M. R. de Sousa, Hon. Secretary; Mr. M. A. Figueiredo, Hon. Treasurer; and Messrs. F. H. Barnes, J. M. R. Xavier, J. M. Graca, C. E. Marques, J. Jordan and J. Chan.

THE PHILIPPINES

INDEPENDENCE MISSION IN COLONY

Mr. Quezon, President of the Senate of the Philippine Islands, and leader of the Independence Mission, passed through the Colony on Saturday by the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada en route to Manila. He was met here by a large deputation of Philipinos, who gave him an enthusiastic welcome.

Speaking to the Press on board the Empress of Canada, Mr. Quezon said he was quite satisfied with the result of his mission to the United States. "We have secured the enactment of a law which is very satisfactory in every way," he said.

The Mission went to the United States to protest against the modified form of Independence granted the Philippines under the Hawes-Cutting Bill, and, in spite of the opinion in Manila that nothing could be done to improve the conditions of this Bill, it was successful in obtaining the passing of the McDuffy-Tyding Law, which provides for full independence after a period of 10 years.

Mr. Quezon explained that the Islands will be granted a full Dominion status, with the establishment of a Commonwealth Government within the next 10 months. The officials and members of the government are to be Philipinos, including the Chief Executive, and the United States will be represented in the Islands by a High Commissioner.

The Constitution of the new Philippines Republic will be based on that of the United States, Mr. Quezon explained, and, as far as is known at present, steps will be taken to establish an immigration quota, for, at present, there are about 50,000 Chinese and 15,000 Japanese in the Islands.

Questioned about the American Sugar Bill, Mr. Quezon stated that no harm had been sustained by the sugar trade in the Philippines, and, if the United States gave them the quota of 1,700,000 tons, as promised, the industry should be able to flourish.

every complete thousand tons of quota. The main business of the Committee will be to fix from time to time the percentage allotted in quotas exportable. Manufacturers in Europe and America will be invited to tender advice in this connection.

During the period of regulation Siam will be allowed to plant up to 31,000 acres, and her export quota will be subject to a stipulated minimum each year.

In view of the fact that France absorbed in 1933 about four times the quantity of rubber she exported from Indo-China, there are special arrangements regarding the amount Indo-China may export.

The agreement invites all Governments, except Sarawak and Siam, to levy their excess exports of rubber and apply the proceeds towards research.

The scheme operates as from June 1, 1934, and terminates December 12, 1938, but the International Committee may beforehand recommend continuance or otherwise.

The rubber agreement has been submitted to the Governments concerned with a request for legislation.

WAGING WAR ON MALARIA

For ten years the Health Section of the League of Nations has been fighting malaria and now has an excellent report to present to the world. This job by the League may be looked upon as one of the most useful pieces of salvage done after the Great War. From 1914 onwards, malarial mosquitoes had the time of their lives. Doctors had other things to think about. Money could not be spared for anti-malarial work. Armies of refugees carried infection across the frontiers. War and post-war conditions encouraged the disease everywhere. In Italy, during the war, malaria mortality increased by over 500%. In Greece, the death-rate doubled. There were thirteen-and-a-half million cases in Russia during a single year—four times as many as in pre-war days. Similar stories came from Poland, Bulgaria, Rumania and Yugo-Slavia, while the situation in Asia and Africa assumed alarming proportions. So, in 1923, the League of Nations was called into action. Its special sub-committee of experts later developed into the Malaria Commission. Fifty-four of the world's leading specialists are to-day helping the League to complete its task. Three main lines of approach have produced satisfactory results. First, it has been necessary to find out why malaria occurs in some countries and not in others, although mosquitoes may be present in both cases. Useful discoveries have been made by studying conditions in Great Britain, Holland, and Denmark. Secondly, the production and sale of quinine has been dealt with. In order to overcome the world shortage, interesting experiments have been directed towards finding an effective substitute for this drug. Thirdly, in the most heavily infected countries, the League has organised special epidemiological enquiries. The first study tour in 1924 revealed the local conditions in Bulgaria, Greece, Italy, Rumania, Russia and Yugoslavia. Next year, Palestine and Spain were visited; in 1926, Corsica and Sicily; in 1927, the United States of America; and in 1929 India, Albania, Persia and Siam also received assistance from the League. Meanwhile, in the course of a general enquiry, information was collected from the health administrations of 93 malarial countries and territories. These, it was estimated, represented three-quarters of the population of the globe. Naturally hard work and patience were needed to co-ordinate this mass of material. To-day the results are justifying the League's vast expenditure of effort.

NOTES OF THE DAY

PHILIPPINE INDEPENDENCE

Mr. Quezon declares himself to be well satisfied with the new legislation granting independence to the Philippines and it is hardly to be doubted that his personal influence in the islands is such that the new proposals will be accepted by the Filipino people. They mark a distinct advance upon the provisions of the Hare-Hawes-Cutting Act. Full independence has been secured, becoming automatic within ten years and during the period of transition, governmental reforms will take place virtually conceding a constitution similar to Dominion status in the British Empire. It can scarcely be denied, therefore, that the new legislation goes far towards meeting the aspirations of the Filipinos. Doubt only arises when the economic provisions are studied and here the same objections that caused the refusal of the offer made a year ago appear.

ECONOMIC HANDICAPS

The welfare of the Philippines in the economic sphere has received less consideration than the interests of American competitors. The Filipino trade in sugar, coconut oil and yarn fibre is jeopardised. Perhaps President Roosevelt hopes, by the exercise of tariff powers which he is seeking from Congress, that he can ease the difficulties certain to develop, but the powerful American interests which wrote into the law a long list of specific provisions threatening the economic stability of the islands are certain to resist such benevolence to the last ditch. On the political side, the Filipinos are fully assured, on the economic they are required to surrender a hard-won position, which makes the grant of independence a shabby sort of gift. Their association with the United States has naturally resulted in concentration of Filipino trade in serving the American market. If severance of political relations involves also the loss of much of their export trade to the United States, existence as an independent republic may be started amid acute economic distress.

TEST TOURISTS

The Australian cricketers have been received in England with the warmest of welcomes. If it was necessary, which it is difficult to believe, they have been put completely at their ease concerning the effects in England of the unfortunate leg-theory bowling controversy. No hard feelings have been harboured. The Englishman would feel a very serious void in his cricket should anything occur to prevent the periodical tests of skill provided by the meetings of England's and Australia's foremost players. The present tour will proceed, we are sure, as though the word "body-line" had never been coined or heard of, provided sensation-seeking scribes do not set out to create mischief. It is a regrettable fact that journalists far more than cricketers or crowds were responsible for the bad spirit that arose as a result from the last tour in Australia.

TOP HATS

The decision to form a club at Westminster for restoring the former glories of parliamentary headgear is a welcome sign that Great Britain still preserves unimpaired her ancient standards of value. On the eve of the conquest of Canada, as General Wolfe sat up the St. Lawrence, reading Gray's "Elegy" to his men, he said, "I would rather have written that poem than take Quebec." Soon afterward, he did take Quebec; and on that occasion few were his opponents who would have appreciated the faintness of Mr. Walt Disney's most celebrated villain. Nearly two hundred years have passed since then, but Britain happily remains little changed in spirit, still thinking of such matters as poetry where others would be meditating on such things as war. For just before the 1934 budget was introduced, the chief topic of discussion in London was not the possibility of a reduction in income tax, but the desirability of an increase in top hats.

SYMBOL OF PEACE

The immediate object of the Top Hat Club at Westminster is, of course, the restoration of that article of attire to its former popularity with M. P.'s. But Mr. Robert Lynd sees far more in it than that. Thomas Carlyle embodied an entire philosophy in a suit of clothes; and Mr. Lynd balances a whole political system on the shining crown of the top hat. This, he says, is a symbol of peace—ful, satisfied, prosperous Conservatism. It is impossible to conceive of a revolution being carried through by men in top hats. In other words, the Disarmament Conference would go far toward calming the angry passions of nations if only it could persuade the haberdashers to sell more top hats and fewer coloured shirts.

AN APPEAL FOR CHINESE UNITY

By H. T. ONG

Sir,—In view of recent reports indicating a hardening of the attitude of political leaders in the South West against the National Government's efforts to bring them within its fold, will you be good enough to permit a Shanghai subscriber of your paper a little space in your columns to voice the sincere regret of Chinese opinion here and elsewhere in this country against the incomprehensible manoeuvres of our Southern fellow-countrymen.

I have been specially impelled to raise at least such feeble protest as is in my power, by the present deadlock in the negotiations for absorption of the branch political organ by the Central body, which in recent weeks had appeared to be proceeding smoothly to the complete satisfaction of all parties concerned, and which culminated in the attack made on the Government by the circular telegram of the South-West Kuomintang Executive Committee dated the 14th April, and reported in the Shanghai Evening Post, two days ago.

The said telegram after warning the Government of the political implications of falling in with Japanese claims for resumption of the postal services and through railway traffic between this country and Manchuria, concluded with what appears to my mind to be a strikingly unjustifiable denunciation of Nanking's policy in regard to the Manchurian question and a personal attack on General Huang Pu, the Government's representative in the North.

I have no intention of indulging in any special pleading on behalf of the National Government, whether rightly or otherwise. But as a Chinese citizen I wish to register the resentment that all fair-minded loyal Chinese must feel against the petty opposition tactics of the South West, which consist wholly and solely of destructive criticism.

As the cradle of the National Revolution the South West must forever stand high in our esteem. Furthermore, no one will seriously doubt the genuineness of the patriotism of the leaders in those provinces. But "Patriotism is not enough." China is admittedly facing one of the biggest crises of her existence. And the present is not the time for empty talk—of which the most reprehensible form is destructive criticism—but for action, consistent with one's political convictions.

Along with numbers of our countrymen sincerely following the course of the negotiations between the central and branch political organs, and hoping sincerely that the result will give more power to the elbow of the men in charge of the ship of State, I for one, cannot escape the conviction that the National Government has done everything possible to meet all reasonable aspirations that could be entertained by the leaders in the South West. Despite all this, no progress whatever has been made. I cannot yet believe that it is entirely hopeless to expect achievement, of the all-desirable end of getting the South West to give its wholehearted moral and political backing to our Government. The age of corrupt self-seeking politicians, who would sell their country to fill their pockets, every Chinese fervently trusts is past.

It is an open secret that the uncompromising South West constitutes the one and only remaining obstacle to perfect national unity. Repeatedly it has taken steps which delight the hearts of our national enemies, by proclaiming a line of policy in direct contrast to that of the National Government. Independent notes to foreign powers, and to the League, and other similar action discrediting the Government in the eyes of the world, have lent weight to Japanese defamations of our country, as "disintegrating," "disorganised," and the like. The net result is that the Government in the face of South Western criticism, often is rendered helpless to adopt a steady policy. At times, in trying to please everybody it has ended in pleasing nobody. And on every occasion the South West which alone could nerve and strengthen the Government's hand, has been the foremost to censure the Government for weakness, for which the South West's non-co-operation itself is mainly responsible.

Any impartial study of the problems as they really face the Government will convince one that whatever steps to the prejudice of our country and our cause have been taken, they have been taken out of sheer painful necessity, after all other possible avenues have been explored and found impossible. The Government has been in the unenviable plight of coping not only with the most unprecedented crises, but is also saddled with the Herculean task of cleaning out the Augean stables of misgovernment left by its predecessors. Is it any wonder that the Government cannot perform the superhuman feats, which apparently were the minimum that would satisfy South Western critics?

Not one single contribution to National policy has been made by those that have been the foremost and readiest to condemn. The Government has said to each and every one of those critics, "Come and lend your judgment to us, so that jointly we may be able to formulate the best possible policy." And this frankness has, sad to say, apparently failed to be reciprocated by equal frankness.

In normal times the Government would perhaps adopt an attitude which may be summed up in less elegant parlance as "Either help us, or shut up." But the present is not the time for personal, class, or regional resentment. In the National cause, neither class nor creed, party nor province must raise a distinction; but all must work with one heart and speak with one voice for the common weal. Can the leaders of the South West fail to realise, this obvious paramount duty and still arrogate to itself pride of place as Chinese patriots? To this question there can obviously be only one answer.

"Look, mamma, he's got the operator crazy."

The Very Idea! OLD HONGKONG—THE TRUTH!

By George

THE "Old Hongkong" series of articles gives away a lot of other people's past but owing no doubt to the inherent modesty of the Press, the weekly feature seldom touches on the history of the newspapers in this Colony.

There appears to have been so little news in those days what with the absence of local scandal and the foreign news service, that the newspapers were limited, to telling tales of each other. Headlines such as these were frequent occurrences:

Editor Imprisoned

Fourth Sentence On Upholder
of Public Rights

Justice Blots Copy Book

Or again—

Government Wakes Up

Contemptible Contemprary's
Convict Caged

So frequent were some of former scribes in their visits to the "Victoria" that a Press Club is believed to have been run there with the connivance of the jailers. One Editor moved in with his family and furniture and had his letter paper headed "The Old Vic." This club came abruptly to an end when an editor proved unfaithful to the cause and gained a scold over his rivals by publishing a complete revelation of the case and corruption of prison life.

When warring with the Government became monotonous the papers turned against each other and we find little items such as this:

"The 'Mac' yara related by the Daily Post the other day as a genuine and original joke against Scotch engineers is as old as Granny herself and nearly as feeble."

This gained the subscription of the Scotsmen but lost the support of the few grannies in the Colony. The maligned and long suffering humorist reports:—"We should like to have an impartial opinion on the value of the issues of that pennyworth of filth and degradation the Daily Biff-ruff."

"Our opinion of course is open to the charge of prejudice but we think very strongly that nothing sadder in the newspaper line has ever been foisted on the generous and open minded public of this Colony—and we are not forgetting the existence of the Daily Slug."

"There must be some special charm in wishy-washy lubrications of the prattling scribes of our mudheaded contemporary but we can remain assured that as long as their lascivious and vacuous appeal is confined to the dubious and uneducated clientele for whom they cater, we of the more enlightened organ of public opinion and thought have little to fear."

When quoting from other local papers, the quoters never failed to apologise for printing this "journalistic swill" and if attacked themselves retorted that they would reply if they could "detect the circulation of the alleged newspaper."

When telegrams were started there was considerable opposition to one paper attributing its news to "Special Telegram."

Says one such:—"Now why should this news—which appears to have as much local interest as the death of the late lamented Queen Anne—have induced our notoriously stingy contemporary to have gone to the totally unnecessary expense of a telegram? But did they pay for it? No we think not. We think it was sent by some friend who wanted the news made public and our contemporary is therefore a consummate humbug."

But to come to more recent days we may say that we had the privilege of interviewing an editor quite recently. He received us with a Telegraph in one hand and scissors and paste in the other. We shook hands without getting cut or pasted and asked him for his views on this contemporary.

"I have nothing but admiration and envy for your paper," he said. "Your news is good, accurate and well-laid out. I always know where to turn for my leader and the little stray bits that one's own staff is bound to miss and when I want to laugh I look up your little column and enjoy a good half hour. There is only one little point I would like to draw your attention to, and that is your court work. Recently I have been obliged to send one of my own men down as your paper has not been publishing quite enough of the cases I need. I'm sure you will not take this amiss and that a word in the right quarter will do the trick."

He apologised and withdrew to the sound of ringing bells, snapping scissors and the soft satisfying smooch of paste and paper.

MESSRS. SWAN CULBERTSON MOVE

OFFICE IN BANKING CENTRE

UP-TO-DATE SERVICE

As from to-day, the business of Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz, the well-known investment bankers and brokers, will be conducted in their new premises, No. 9 Queen's Road Central, formerly occupied by Messrs. Williams, Powell, Ltd., and prior to that by the National City Bank of New York.

Situated on the corner of Lee House Street, and on the ground floor, the new office is in the heart of the financial area and is surrounded by the leading banks of the Colony.

Telephone connections were installed yesterday and work was continued through the night to enable business to be commenced to-day. The main lobby of the ground floor will be for clients, and here also will be the Manager's office and two private rooms. British and American financial journals and reference books will be available to clients and there will also be complete Company reports on file.

NEW SERVICE

A new night service quotation is being commenced as from to-day. In view of the change over to daylight-saving time in the United States, Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz will receive the night service quotations in Hongkong at 10 p.m. (U.S. time 10 a.m.). The service will continue for every ten or fifteen minutes up to a little after midnight.

Earlier in the evening the London quotations, cross rates, London silver and gold prices and British commodity quotations will be received, also the London forecast on the opening of the New York market.

The mezzanine floor of the new office comprises the accounting department and the telephone switchboard.

Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz formerly occupied offices on the third floor of the Asia Life Building, since the opening of the office in Hongkong in November, 1932. The removal to a ground-floor office has been made because it will more convenient for the business.

EXCITING SAILING

YACHT CLUB ENDS SEASON

PRIZES AWARDED

An exciting day's racing marked the closing of the Royal Hongkong Yacht Club's season on Saturday, a visitor on the Painted Lady falling overboard, the Ariel breaking her mast, and a number of protests for fouls being lodged.

At the conclusion of the races, the prizes won for the past season and for the afternoon were distributed by Mrs. Shields, wife of Mr. A. L. Shields, Commodore of the Yacht Club, in the presence of a large gathering.

Commodore Frank Elliott, R.N., who thanked the Club on behalf of the Navy, Army and Air Force, referred to the possibility of the Government handing over Kerkira Island to the Club for its new headquarters at the end of 1936.

Four sailing events, in which only the first two ladies' events received prizes, were on the programme for the afternoon's racing.

In the cruiser class, Mrs. Beck brought "Norseman" across the line first, with Miss Owen Hughes in "Sealark" second.

The "H." class went to Mrs. Thompson in "Colleen", closely followed by Mrs. Kemble in "Rolla".

Mrs. Baker scored a comfortable victory in "Toyette" in the "I." "Y." and "G." class, with Mrs. Wren in "Zephyr" second.

The final race ("A" class) went to Mrs. Griffin in "Wasp II", which held a good lead over Mrs. Mure in "Jan". Third place was taken by Mrs. Adams in "True Blue".

Mr. Shields presented Mr. R. J. Vernal with a fine book on "Sail" and Mr. G. H. Gandy with two pipes in a canoe, as tokens of appreciation for their excellent secretarial work for the Club.

On the call of Commodore Elliott, those present responded with three lusty cheers for Mrs. Shields, after which the gathering dispersed.

CHINA'S OLYMPIC XI DEFEATED

Robertson had dropped back and playing his usual bull-dog game managed to get in the way of Tsao's best movements.

For the first fifteen minutes the Olympic were doing all the pressing.

CONTORTIONIST CORD

Wong Ki-leung had developed a slight limp from one of the tackles in which he figured.

A centre from the right came just right for Malpas's head and he made no mistake in giving the Rest the advantage at 4-3.

The Chinese pressed more strongly than ever and it seemed that the defensive policy of the Rest would prove their undoing unless their forwards could give them relief.

Gosano saved a corner by punting it into the new stand but play was continuously in the Rest area.

With Cord on his toes or stomach most of the time the Rest goal experienced some marvellous escapes.

Ridley was blinded with mud and the ball was in a maelstrom of play from which a goal seemed very near.

The Chinese missed their opportunity again when Cord just got to the ball first and punted it over the bar.

A shot from four yards out found Cord still in front and the rebound went outside for another corner.

The game concluded with a bombardment of the Rest goal and up to the last moment it appeared that the game would at least be drawn.

Mrs. M. K. Lo presented medals to the winners and silver spoons to the losers, both eleven joining in hearty cheers for her and for the Club.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

WE LIVE IN AN AGE THAT HATH MORE NEED OF GOOD EXAMPLE THAN PRECEPTS.—George Herbert.

Mr. R. O. F. King, former Editor of The China Mail left for Australia on Saturday morning by the Kamo Maru.

The number of persons vaccinated by members of St. John Ambulance Brigade ended April 29 was 167,993 of these 169,610 were previously vaccinated and 8,383 vaccinated last week. With the advent of the rice planting season, the demand for vaccination in the New Territories has ceased. The number of cases in Hongkong has fallen off very materially.

will finish the season with an completed fixture lists.

THE annual dinner of the Hongkong Football Club on Saturday was one of the most successful events in the history of the club. Conviviality was the keynote, and it expressed itself in the speeches, which were of admirable length and sentiment; in the musical programme and in the comradeship of the company.

MR. M. K. Lo's reply on behalf of the guests was a typically neat speech, couched in ideal terms. Especially happy and appropriate was his reference to sport which he said knew no bounds in either class or race. Another happy thought was his definition of sportsman: it couldn't be expressed in words, he said, but one could always tell the sportsman when one met him.

THE Rev. Lewis Bryan is quite the most indispensable after-dinner entertainer the Colony boasts at the present time. He kept the gathering uproariously amused for half an hour on Saturday night.

YESTERDAY'S match must have given the C.A.A.F. football selectors some food for thought. To be defeated by a Colony eleven, which although fairly representative, was not perhaps the strongest that could have been fielded, must have come as a big shock to the chosen Olympic players.

CONDITIONS, I am told, greatly affected the Chinese, who are never at home on the mud because generally speaking it is somewhat foreign to local football. Furthermore they lack the weight.

NEVERTHELESS I should not be surprised to see some alterations in the final line-up of the Chinese XI at Rizal Field next month.

CORD'S great work between the sticks only serves to emphasise how rich the Colony has been in goalkeeping talent this season. Whereas George Rodger stood out head and shoulders above his contemporaries some three or four years ago, to-day he is well matched by Cord of Kowloon, Smith of the Borderers, and before he left, Heath of the Lincolns, not to mention McHardy the Interporter.

IF any vindication were needed of my fairly recent assertion that Gosano's ideal position is central-half, his displays against the Borderers last Wednesday and again against the Chinese yesterday, provide it. It was in 1930-31 that "A.V." appeared here for the first time, and he played magnificent football right through the season.

INCIDENTALLY there was a good chance at one time of yesterday's game being called off. The heavy rainstorm which swept the Colony shortly after tiffin left the pitch flooded, and it was necessary to bale the water off the ground with blankets before the game could start. Within ten minutes the players were indulging on a quagmire.

THE friendly game between South China "B" and Canton, which preceded the big encounter, was more like a water polo match, and was quite farcical.

ONCE again Caroline Hill was the scene of another "hard luck" penalty. Syd. Strange was the victim. His "hands" was about the most accidental affair imaginable, but the full penalty extracted, and the Chinese were enabled to reduce the deficit.

NEW JAPANESE POLICY

TOKYO CONFERENCE DECISION

Tokyo, Apr. 29.

The Japanese Foreign Minister to-day announced that he had decided to inaugurate a new policy towards China, following a conference with Army, Navy and other leaders, based on Mr. Akiyoshi's report on Sino-Japanese relations which, the Minister to China states, are gradually returning to normalcy.

Mr. Akiyoshi is returning to Shanghai within three weeks, having spent some days in Japan, and will put into effect this new policy. The details of Japan's attitude have not yet been revealed.—United Press.

London, Apr. 28.

The Government regards the "Hands Off China" incident as closed.

It was officially intimated to the Press to-day that Sir John Simon will announce in the House of Commons on Monday that the assurances handed to Sir Francis Lindley by Mr. Hirota are considered most satisfactory.

It is assumed that the United States, which during the past ten days has exchanged information with Britain, shares the British view.

It is semi-officially stated that "there will probably be no further move after Sir John Simon's statement on Monday."—United Press.

Commons Statement

London, Apr. 29.

The Sunday Dispatch learns that Sir John Simon's statement in the House of Commons to-morrow will show that Japan has now declared that she does not wish to interfere with the rights of other Powers in China, and does not take up any position contrary to the Nine Power Treaty.—Reuter.

Observer's Comments

London, Apr. 28.

"Tokyo's announcement of ten days ago is being increasingly recognised in the Western capitals as a serious departure from Japanese policy," says the Observer.

"Japan's explanation is in a friendly and correct form, but is lacking in reassuring substance. Sir John Simon, in the House of Commons, skilfully contrived not to inflame emotion, yet suggested the disquiet that has been caused. In effect, Japan now claims exclusive influence over 400,000,000 Chinese people, despite seven other Powers who signed the Nine Power Treaty.

"Japan is inspired by the expectation that she will further claim naval parity with England and America. On the evidence of a Japanese newspaper, she even contemplates protesting against the Singapore base 'as a menace to Japan.'"

"These are portentous things and a sign that Japan is lacking in wisdom. Neither Washington nor London can or will ignore them. The immediate result has been a spurt on the part of President Roosevelt in naval construction.—Reuter.

Treaty Issues

London, Apr. 28.

"There is no doubt in London," says the Observer's diplomatic correspondent, "that the spirit of what has been published and said in Tokyo raises issues affecting the Nine Power Treaty."

"The opinion is expressed in London that the Japanese claim to act alone and, on their own responsibility, keep peace and order in East Asia, is inconsistent with the provisions of the Nine Power Treaty."

"As far as loans and armaments are concerned, it is recognised in London that Japan has as much right to be consulted as the other seven non-Chinese signatories, before any controversial step can be taken, but the British Government wholly rejects the Japanese claim of 'peculiar' position. Indeed, if rival claims to peculiar interests in China were to be contested, Britain would obviously have the strongest claim, on the ground that the capital on which China's economic and financial life is founded is mostly British.—Reuter.

By No Means Closed

Washington, Apr. 29.

The Secretary of State, Mr. Cordell Hull, indicated that high officials of the State Department will study the text of Japan's policy before deciding on action.

The incident is by no means considered closed, despite London despatches intimating that Britain considers Mr. Hirota's assurance satisfactory.

Interviewed, Mr. Hull said he had no communication from Britain on the subject. It is understood that Mr. Hull desires to study several points, especially as to who will determine when loans or other assistance to China may be con-

THE PROTEST PROBLEM

COMMITTEE FACE STIFF TASK

NEWS & VIEWS

(By "Veritas").

THE death of Hongkong's 1933-34 football league season is fast approaching. In fact by this time next week rigors mortis will have set in. The first division championship will have been settled (slight relief) and the last competitive game of the season will have been played, with the Governor's Cup safely tucked away either at Caroline Hill or the P.A. offices.

AND it hasn't been a bad season at that. Programmes completed by schedule times; better displays of football in cup, shield and league; new trophy winners; a generally happier atmosphere on the playing fields.

TRUE we lost the Interport, but Syd Strang can tell you that story better than I. True also, we have the threat of the league championship resting on the result of a protest regarding a technical offence.

ON the other hand there is no sensible reason why such an insignificant incident should be allowed to dominate a vital issue. It is probably not within my province to suggest to the management committee how they might reasonably act in connection with this.

BUT having considered the facts so far as they are known to me, I feel confident that the committee can adopt a line of action which, without ignoring the obvious demands of the ruling respecting the playing of ineligible men, will at the same time permit the league championship to be settled in the only proper manner.

ST. Joseph's cannot be expected to be asked to run the risk of suffering through the alleged misbehaviour of the Police. At the same time any decision which will prevent the Borderers from enjoying the opportunity they deserve of a final bid for the title will be rather regrettable.

AS I have intimated, there does seem to be a way out of the little problem, but the whole thing is up to the committee.

ONLY a few weeks ago the rather interesting situation arose of the Borderers being league leaders for 24 hours before being replaced by St. Joseph's. But a new record was established on Saturday. St. Joseph's recaptured the premiership by 4.30 p.m., and by 6.15 had lost it again.

AS my colleague "Crusader" indicates in another column, St. Joseph's did not show championship form, and only just scraped a win out of the Athletic. This impression received support from several onlookers with whom I chatted later in the afternoon.

NEVERTHELESS I do know for a certainty that if the Saints and Borderers meet in a play-off, the colleagues will approach the event with perfect equanimity.

THEY feel they have the full measure of the soldiers, and that against their type of game, can always give a better account of themselves.

THERE were some shocks in other league games. The Recreio came into their own with a smashing victory against the Navy. Latter were below strength, but the Portuguese lads owe no apology.

NICE work by the Artillery, and a very fair showing by the East Lancashires. Truly was it a red letter day for the lesser fry.

RECREIO's achievement did not allow them to dispose of the "wooden spoon". Other teams carrying the baby are: Second Division, Kowloon; Third Division, University.

SOUTH China and Lincoln shared the honours in the second and third divisions. The Chinese collected the premiership of the second division and were runners-up in the first. Lincoln won third and finished runners-up in the second.

APART from the Club-Athletic match arranged for Tuesday, I have heard of no other rearranged league fixture for this week, which suggests that the East Lancashires, Police and Club (Continued on Page 7.)

BORDERERS STILL ON TOP

The championship of the First Division was not decided on Saturday, the Borderers and St. Joseph's remaining on level point terms with a victory each on Saturday.

The full scheduled games have now been played and the championship rests on the result of the protest entered by St. Joseph's against the Police for playing an allegedly ineligible player.

Five Goals Against Run of the Play

KOWLOON'S REMARKABLE WIN OVER POLICE

(By Wanderer")

The Police must still be wondering how Kowloon managed to defeat them by five goals to one on Saturday. And it is doubtful whether Kowloon's supporters have got over their amusement.

For it was amusing—for every body except the Police. Every Kowloon goal after Blake's brilliant first was greeted with laughter—for every one of them was obtained against the run of the play!

If a record had been taken, it would probably have been found that the Police attacked for seventy-five per cent. of the game, and for long periods without a break. But there were times when Kowloon's goal seemed to bear a charm of life, while at the other end, it seemed that Kowloon scored every time they broke away.

Things were not quite so bad as this (but very nearly so). The Police goal was raised half a dozen times in the first half and three goals came.

They worried the Police but a trifle more after the interval and obtained two more. It was a day on which they missed scarcely a single real opportunity of scoring, while the Police attacked almost incessantly and netted only once, falling deplorably to Stephens, who was the one really efficient player in the police forward line.

MULLANE AND GOSANO'S TROJAN SERVICE REWARDED

(By "The Pilgrim")

Beaten by sheer grit and a dragging, muddy ground, the choice eleven of China for the Manila Olympic fell before the Rest XI at Caroline Hill yesterday afternoon to the tune of 4-3.

But for a penalty goal, the Chinese would have been defeated by two goals and this in face of the fact that at one time they had the game in their pockets with the score at 3-1 in their favour!

Mullane and Gosano bore the brunt of the work and covered themselves with mud and glory.

But to Cord in goal went the real credit for saving the game for the Rest.

When all the defences were down and a goal seemed imminent, Cord was there with sure hands on every occasion and his uncanny anticipation has seldom been seen before in such astounding advantage.

The teams lined up in the following order:—
China Olympic.—Wong Ki-leung; Li Tin-sang, Lau Mau; Ho Chor-yin, Leung Wing-chui, Chan Chan-cheung; Tao Kwai-shing, Tam Kong-pak, Fung King-cheong, Lee Wai-tong, Ip Pak-wah.

The Rest.—Cord; L/Cpl. Mullane, S. Strange; G. Gamble, A. V. Gosano, L. G. Robertson; V. Elliott, E. Strange, Sgt. Malpas, L/Cpl. Ridley.

Mr. K. Lo, President of the South China Athletic Club, kicked off before a packed ground. Although the weather remained grey and threatening, no rain fell during the match but the ground was coloured with patches of mud and pools of water.

The first few minutes saw Tao flashing along the wing at a pace which none of the opposition defence could equalise.

Twice he centred and twice the ball was cleared.
Then Mullane sent Ridley away on a through pass and Wong Ki-leung had his first feel of the ball. The Rest forced a fruitless corner and another which was put out.

S. Strange mis-kicked to let the centre-forward through—but his shot went wide.
Ip Pak-wah sent in a full-blooded drive which Cord dealt with efficiently and the ball travelled to the other end of the field.

It was centred in from the left and a mix-up ensued from which Malpas netted to put the Rest in the lead.

HALVES AT FAULT.
Pressing their advantage the rest had an offside decision against them.

SURPRISE EQUALISER.

The equaliser came in unexpected fashion after 20 minutes when S. Strange was penalised, the ball bouncing up against his arm when he ran across to intercept.

Li Lai-tung gave Cord no chance with the kick and the scores were levelled at one all.

Pressing hard, the Chinese forced a corner on the right and Tao taking it put it into a bunch of players. Cord got his foot to a low corner shot but Fung King-cheung got the return and banged home a hard shot which had Cord unlighted and out of position.

The game was still fast and the ball went swiftly from either goal. The Olympic intermediates were combining well and feeding the attacking line constantly. The Rest were keeping steady but pressure was still coming from the right and Tam Kong-pak broke through, after Mullane had tackled three men, to score with a wonderful oblique shot which grazed the under side of the bar.

Immediately afterwards the Rest reduced the arrears by a scramble in goal resulting in Elliott scoring. The goalkeeper was sitting on the ground while the ball reluctantly rolled into the far corner.

Continuing to press the Rest had the great fortune to equalise a few minutes before halftime from a centre from Hocquard. The shot was not so difficult as that from Tam but the Chinese goalkeeper did not seem prepared for it.

The second half found S. Strange in better form and he and Mullane played well together, presenting a rock-like defence.

BRILLIANT START BUT DISMAL FINISH

HOW BORDERERS RETAINED THE LEAGUE LEADERSHIP

RECOVER FROM SECOND HALF FRIGHT IN CLOSING MINUTES

(By "Veritas").

CLUB 1 BORDERERS 3

If the display of the first ten minutes had been maintained, this would have been the best league match of the season. But an early goal to the Borderers had its repercussions, and seemed to encourage both teams to relax, so that the exchanges gradually lost their excitement, and finally became rather uninteresting.

The Borderers were far more pronounced winners than the score suggests, and they thoroughly deserved the points which allowed them to retain the leadership, and to force the championship issue to its farthest point.

At one time there was a very reasonable chance of the Club forcing a draw and thereby allowing St. Joseph's to win the title, but such a result would have been all against the run of the play, and nobody could deny the soldiers their spoils.

The first few minutes of the game produced dazzling football. First the Borderers swept down the field, and Hazlewood made a terrific left footed drive which was going direct for the top corner of the net. The next minute, the Club had taken the ball down by means of a clever forward line movement, culminating in Ernest Strange just shaving the cross-bar.

ENTERPRISING HAZLEWOOD.
Then followed Hazlewood's opening goal, born of an amazing piece of enterprise. He challenged Sydney Strange for possession of a forward pass, and succeeded in hooking his leg round just as the ball was crossing the line and to lift it underneath the cross-bar from where it rebounded into the net. Rodger being left helpless, more by the unexpectedness of the whole thing, than the shot itself.

Then the Borderers began to rest on their laurels. The Club enjoyed a bigger share of the exchanges, and Mullane and Smith were often called upon to relieve dangerous situations.

Nevertheless it was by then comparatively tame football, and not even the interval inspired the players to any extent. Padmore, badly hurt in the first half, hobbled about during the second, but was a complete passenger.

Only after Drown had equalised, did the Borderers really make determined efforts. Up to then they had numbers of chances which they frittered away. Following the equaliser they took the game into their hands, and the Club goal had several extraordinary escapes. Jones, Fortey and Duncan all missed sitters, and indications were that the Borderers would defeat their own ends by over-cautiousness.

Then Jones succeeded in making use of an opening a few yards in front of goal, and before the end, Fortey had added a third, the only decent piece of work he accomplished during the afternoon.

TEAMS COMPARED.

The Borderers in mid-field played fairly true to form right through. They were slightly more adept in their movements, and made ground more rapidly than the Club. Albert, the forwards were below form in their finishing, an unusual number of opportunities being wasted.

Fortey was again completely out of touch, and if the Borderers should be called upon to play a championship deciding match, they will be well advised to make attempts to strengthen this department.

Fortey showed no idea of collecting passes (and he was extremely well treated with these), whilst his slow and obvious movements allowed Pote-Hunt and the Club rearward ample time to rob him of the ball.

Hazlewood worked unceasingly and always to a purpose. At the same time he could have looked after Mathias a little more with possibly beneficial results. His continual distribution of the ball to Fortey often ruined some first-rate approach work.

Duncan was useful on the left wing, and Jones, apart from some failings in the shooting line played his usual game. Mathias was too neglected to be the real force he should be in the attack.

After Padmore's injury, the half-back line was none too secure, and a little more initiative and determination on the part of the Club forwards might have seen their collapse. Underwood was puzzled by Fowler's rush methods, and Davies not altogether happy against Howe and Baldwin, although the combination was not too impressive.

Mullane was brilliant in defence. Morrison again somewhat shaky. Smith made no errors and effected one or two exceptionally smart clearances.

STRANGE UNSUPPORTED.
The Club attack would have been dangerous if Strange had been better supported. But Drown could not control the ball, and Howe failed to give his colleague any through passes, preferring to attempt to swerve round Mullane, an effort which generally ended in the ball going out of play. The wingers were only mediocre.

Pote-Hunt had some classy touches playing at centre-half, and was about the best half back on the field. His intelligently-created openings were too often wasted. Robertson played excellent defensive football, and behind him Gamble was a great stumbling block, continually thwarting Jones and never conceding an inch to Duncan. His interceptions were carried out with attractive abandon. Strange was very solid at left back, although inclined to lose sight of Hazlewood, who was always working towards the centre and therefore away from his opposing back.

Rodger was at times masterly, and saved the Club from a very much heavier defeat. He might have stopped the last goal, and again, if I may be permitted to repeat the criticism, he might easily have been beaten as a result of advancing too far out of his charge.

Seeing that it was at the end of the season, and so much depends on the result from the Borderers' viewpoint, it was not a bad game.

LUCKY SAINTS

POOR WIN OVER ATHLETIC

"PATTERN WEAVING" LOSES GOALS

B. GOSANO DULL

(By "Crusader")

On their exhibition against the China Athletic on Saturday, St. Joseph's do not deserve to win the championship. They won but got home only by a solitary goal scored late in the second half. If their forward line had any idea of direction they should have piled on at least half a dozen goals in the first half and a similar number in the second.

As it was, they indulged in their usual pattern weaving, every man, with the possible exception of Costa, being guilty in this respect. Bernie Gosano had an off day; his displays in recent matches have shown a great dropping off in form, but his exhibition on Saturday must have been his worst for months.

David Leonard had absolutely no idea where the goal was, and did not care to find out. Ward hung too far back, and when the wings did get their context in, he was not there. He obtained the only goal of the match, but it was from a rebound and there was nobody to stop it.

Rocha worked harder than usual at left in, but his lack of speed was a great handicap. Costa was the only man of the quintette to show any initiative, and had had luck with several first-timers, one of which beat the Chinese goalies but glanced off the post.

SHOOTING WEAKNESS.

A general weakness of the St. Joseph's forward line was their inability to shoot without first stopping the ball and placing it in position. This was folly when only ten yards separated them from the goal, but it was done all the game from start to finish.

The two backs, Souza and Gomes, played a sterling game. They refused to be intimidated by the swift rushes of the Chinese forwards, and characterised their clearances with some hefty kicking. Perhaps the game last Wednesday against the Borderers was telling on them. V. Gosano, who at centre half, was not as prominent as he would have expected, but he covered a great deal of territory.

Of the wing halves, young Elms was better than Marques. Marques, in goal, had very little to do, but there were some anxious moments at the start and close to the finish when the Chinese pressed.

The Chinese had almost as identical weaknesses with their opponents. Their forwards had no definite plan of attack, and were too flurried in front of goal to be really dangerous. They had several chances to score, but frittered them away through dilly-dallying with the ball.

HALVES FIRM.

The half backs, Ho Chor-yin, Lal Kwok-chin and Ip Pang-fai, were the barrier between the College and goals. Lal Kwok-chin played a hard game, and reduced Leonard to a state of impotence, while Ip Pang-fai rendered Ward and B. Gosano, as a combination, almost valueless.

Wang Sik-ping, at right back for the Athletic, was the outstanding defender on the field. His bold interceptions time and again saved many dangerous situations. He kept a watchful eye on the lanky Costa, who found this defender too much of a handful.

Although he was not called upon to deal with many difficult shots, Lal Kwok-chin nevertheless had a good day between the sticks. He showed a neat pair of hands, and never looked like being beaten until Ward banged the ball into the net with him lying full length on the ground.

For more than three quarters of the game, play was listless and uninteresting, and it looked as if the game would end in a draw.

About a quarter of an hour from the end, B. Gosano sent in a pile driver from ten yards which had the Chinese goalies bent but Wang Sik-ping kicked the ball out from the goal line, and Ward rushing in, put it into the net.

Only a goal in the end, the Saints were in danger of sharing the points even up to the last minute. They were certainly lucky to take both points.

HOME PROMOTIONS, RELEGATIONS, AND CUP FINAL

LEAGUE MATCHES.

(By "The Pilgrim")

AS I predicted the Chelsea and Arsenal match proved an attractive alternative to the Cup Final and 70,000 spectators saw the Pensioners play their High-bury rivals to a two-all draw at Stamford Bridge.

BASTIN was responsible for both the visitors' goals, the first being a neat pass to James who connected successfully with his head, and the second coming direct from the winger's foot.

HORTON was as useful with his head for the Chelsea Club, he and Mills working up a wonderful understanding in the goal-scoring department.

THE arrival in First Division football of Hedley saw him

manoeuvre some strategic goals for the 'Spurs' his centring enabling both McCormick and Hunt to find the net.

WEDNESDAY'S shooting was rather poor but they would have shared honours with a trifle more accuracy.

BOLTON whirlwind display took them a little further ahead in their goal average race with Preston who also won at home but by two less goals.

CUP FINAL POINTS.

(By "The Pilgrim")

MANCHESTER City won the F. A. Cup on Saturday for the second time in their history.

PORTSMOUTH figured in their second final losing 2-1. In 1929 Bolton Wanderers beat them 2-0.

OVER 100 special trains from the naval port and the Lancashire town carried the fans to the Wembley Stadium.

SOME enthusiasts who could not afford to support transport as well as sport walked from Portsmouth and Manchester starting some days earlier.

MANCHESTER City began the match favourites at 6/4. They were appearing in their second successive cup-final, a feat unequalled for 23 years.

AS both teams boast the royal blue as their colours, Portsmouth wore red on Saturday and the City appeared in white.

TWELVE hundred policemen were employed solely to track down sellers of fake tickets of which thousands had been printed and circulated.

THE King and Queen and the Australian Test team were among the 92,000 spectators who contributed £24,950 which is roughly $324,300.

READING too have gained on Queen's Park and if they can be sure of two points this week will be runners-up to Norwich.

COVENTRY made great pace with a 9-0 win which is the biggest for some weeks.

RANGERS have taken the lead thus secured double honours in Cup and League.

CITY'S MACHINE-LIKE PLAY BREAKS POMPEY

RUTHERFORD'S STORMS BRING EARLY LEAD

PORTSMOUTH'S THREE BACKS WERE NOT ENOUGH

Wembley, Press Box, 3.15 p.m., April 28.

Portsmouth had the English Football Association Cup in their pockets for a brief half hour at Wembley on Saturday when Manchester City lost the services of the injured Herd and with one goal down found the immaculate machinery of their team going to pieces under the stylish sweeping attacks of the southern men.

In the second half, the City played amazing football. A returned Herd flashed in shots from all angles; Tilson tested Gilfillan untiringly, and with Allen off the field with an injury for a brief time, the City equalised.

Brook dribbled four men before placing the ball for Tilson to smash in the second and winning goal of the match.

From the kick-off an atmosphere of electric tension pervaded the field packed with 92,000 fans from north, south, and London.

The teams lined up in the following order:

Portsmouth—Gilfillan, Mackie, W. Smith, Nichol, Allen, Thackeray, Worrall, J. Smith, Weddie, Eason and Rutherford.

Manchester City—Swift, Barnett, Dale, Busby, Cowan, Bray, Toseland, Marshall, Tilson, Terd and Brook.

There was no wind or sun to give advantage to the winner of the toss but when it was seen that Thackeray had called lucky, a great shout went up from the men of Pompey.

They took it as a symbol of victory.

Unperturbed the City men lined up.

Tilson touched the ball to Marshall, Marshall put it out to Toseland and the winger made a brief run to centre the ball to Herd. The inside man after a little quick passing gave to Tilson who was right in the goalmouth. He had the ball when Gilfillan leaped opportunely out the goal to rob him and save a certain score.

WORRALL FOULED.

After this fright Portsmouth kicked the ball upfield where Bray brought them some relief by fouling Worrall just outside the penalty area. Jack Smith took the kick and wasted a good opportunity over the bar.

Settling into their stride, the southerners were playing magnificently. Their approach work was keeping the City defence on their toes.

Then Herd was carried off after being knocked out in a tackle. Undismayed the City carried the ball into foreign territory and went close to scoring when Busby drove in a hard free kick from the twenty-five yard line.

Both defences were sound, and Portsmouth showed their mettle under a series of forward movements.

Rutherford flashed into speed on the left wing but his centre was fruitless as the inside men were not up with him.

At this point the fine working of the City intermediate line was valuable.

GILFILLAN AS SAVIOUR.

But Rutherford was irrepressible. He came to life again in a near goal effort which ended in a foul. Rutherford took the kick himself but shot wide.

As the weather became threatening the play lapsed into a number of minor infringements and free-kicks were frequent.

Gilfillan was the saviour of the side and when Toseland ended a brilliant solo run with a fast drive he found the lively Pompey custodian right on the ball.

After twenty-five minutes Rutherford was again despatched up the wing and tricking Barnett and Dale he swung a hard low right-footer which beat Swift's outstretched fingers to put Portsmouth one up.

Swift went full length in a great effort to save but the ball was too fast and well-placed to be stopped.

Momentarily disorganised, Eason tested Swift again with a high accurate shot from forty yards and only Busby broke up their sweeping movements to consolidate victory in the first half.

Just before the interval the City forwards went up in a determined attack but the three back gave into which Portsmouth dropped made it difficult for them to essay anything but high-droppers which Swift easily dealt with.

After the change over Swift was sorely tested by a glorious curving shot by Rutherford.

Brooks then received the ball, took it into the goalmouth before passing to Herd who swerved out, and with a lightning left-footer struck the upright.

He had Gilfillan absolutely beaten, and it was the very worst bit of luck for Manchester.

With the City dallying in the goalmouth, these were anxious moments for Pompey.

ALLEN INJURED.

Portsmouth then made a dangerous breakaway, but Weddie shot wide from four yards.

Portsmouth seemed to have lost a little of their punch, and Gilfillan was again kept busy, a fast centre from Toseland causing him to jump to a difficult shot in the top left-hand corner.

A clever display by the speedy Manchester forwards broke down in the face of a rock-like defence, and in a melee Allen was injured and carried off.

After the accident Manchester resumed their attack, and Herd sent in a terrific shot from 50 yards. Gilfillan was beaten, but the ball crashed against the cross-bar and rebounded into play.

TILSON, NETS WINNER.

In the 20th minute of the second half Manchester scored magnificently. Brook dribbled past four men and then passed out to Tilson, who cut in from the wing as Herd had done previously and netted with a great left-footed shot along the ground. Allen returned to the field in tense excitement.

Weddie headed over from a centre from Worrall and the latter sent Gilfillan full-length to save magnificently in the corner.

Manchester crammed on pressure and had Gilfillan showing all he knew in saving two successive point-blank shots from Herd and Brook.

There were many hard knocks received and given and City supporters were chagrined at their team's bad luck.

Then Tilson got away on the left wing and crashed home the winning goal with his left foot in the 42nd minute of the game.

Just before the last minute Gilfillan playing with unabated brilliance saved a six yarder shot from Tilson.

The game concluded with the City still pressing a defeated and broken Portsmouth.

THIS cup season has already produced £214,000 or £27,820,000 from the pockets of 3,125,000 fans.

NORTHEY IN FIELD AGAIN

LEADS NAVY AGAINST CRECERO

(By "Wanderer.")

The most interesting feature of the match between the Club de Recreo and the Navy on Saturday was the reappearance in local football for the first time for about six seasons of Northey, ex-Kowloon player, and one of the finest centre-forwards in his prime ever seen locally.

Except for his characteristic touches and methods of weaving through a defence, he was hardly recognisable as the Northey of old, doubtless due to the fact that he had not kicked a ball for some time, while the spirit in which the Navy played as a whole did not encourage him to over-exert himself.

It was a remarkable game taking all things into consideration. The Navy had few changes from the side that defeated the South Wales Borderers, but they were thoroughly outplayed by the lowly-placed Recreo, who led deservedly 3-1 at half-time and finally triumphed by five goals to two.

The Navy backs could not hold the swift-moving Recreo attack, which might have scored several more goals with any luck.

"Y" HOLD MACAO TO DRAW

FAST HOCKEY FULL OF THRILLS

DEFENCE REIGN

The close of the hockey season saw the Y.M.C.A. eleven play a fine draw at Macao on Saturday, when the undefeated Hockey Club there nearly had their record spoilt in a one all draw.

Superb defences on both sides dominated the game and had not the home back line been steady as a rock the visitors would have gained a winning goal in the second half in which they pressed continuously.

The encounter, which was played before a huge crowd of spectators, was packed with thrills and was played at a terrific pace.

The Macao team's stick-work was a feature while their speed sometimes left the Y.M.C.A. defence sprawling.

Sommer who played at centre half for the Y.M.C.A. team played a wonderful game, and together with G. Fowler and R. Bates was responsible for a magnificent display of defensive tactics.

F. Fowler in goal for the "Y" played at the top of his form and together with Selk and Farmer kept his charge from falling on more than one occasion, the goal-scoring against the "Y" being an unfortunate accident in that Fowler slipped while attempting to save.

The Macao defence was superb and had it not been for the two home backs, the Y.M.C.A. would have walked away with the game.

The game opened fast, the Y.M.C.A. taking the lead in the first ten minutes when S. Fowler scored with a magnificent shot which had the Macao custodian beaten all the way.

The Macao centre forward equalised two minutes later as a result of a combined forward movement which left the "Y" defence temporarily paralysed.

In the second half the "Y" enjoyed most of the play and had it not been for the Macao defence, they would have emerged winners. The game was one of the best seen in Macao this season.

London, Apr. 28. After his brilliant form in the early rounds, L. G. Crawford was generally expected to win the English Amateur Golf Championship at Torquay to-day, but he was sensationally beaten by Stanley Lunt in the final.

Lunt was six down after the morning round, but in a remarkable rally, won the match at the thirty-seventh hole.

Craigengower Get Early Bowls Thrill

WEAKENED INDIAN TEAM BEATEN AT YACHT CLUB

Rain had some effect on the lawn bowls matches with which the Hongkong Lawn Bowls League commenced the season on Saturday, but a full programme was played.

Craigengower "B" team made their debut in the senior League by winning against Kowloon Docks.

The Hongkong Football Club, newcomers to the Second Division were entertained to a heavy defeat by the Hongkong Electric Company. The Police and Civil Service also gained victories.

The Kowloon Bowling Green Club scored a double, being successful both against the K.C.C. by 11 shots, and the Juniors by nine.

The Craigengower Cricket Club "A" team met the Civil Service on Saturday at their home green and emerged victors in a thrilling finish by the narrowest possible margin of one shot.

At one period they had a lead of about 20 shots on all three rinks and this looked good enough for an easy win. Then came a heavy shower and this put a different complexion on the game, due undoubtedly to the heavy state of the green which suited the Civil Servants.

Playing brilliantly, U. M. Omar's four (G. Duncan, L. C. R. Souza and W. F. Field) recorded a two shot win which gave the ex-Champion the points, Omar giving a fine exhibition while Field, who was promoted to the "A" team, gave good support. In this rink F. J. Jones skipped well enough but Omar was always a shade better.

J. Denkin who skipped his time and great care in delivering his woods, B. W. Bradbury skipped his rink to a one shot win over Grimmit's four. Bradbury being very accurate in his draw while he was well supported by Bear his right hand man. Grimmit played well.

SECOND DIVISION.

YACHT CLUB WIN.

Playing at the Yacht Club the Indian R. C. were heavily defeated by the home team by a margin of 35 shots.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Solution to Previous Contract Problem.

To-day's hand is one of the old-timers. It has been used in contests and in series of problems, but a great many of my readers have been writing in about it, so I am going to give the answer to-day. If you have seen it before and have tried it, you have found it unusually interesting.

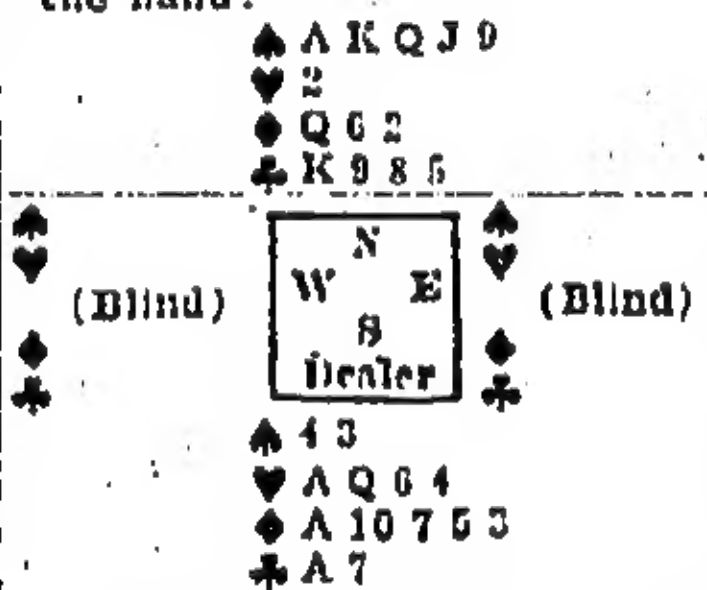

I am afraid, if you set this hand up for your friends and asked them to bid it, that no two of them would bid it alike. However, it is not a bidding problem, but rather one of play.

The Play

West opens the king of clubs, which South wins with the ace. He then leads a small heart and wins in dummy with the jack. The ace of spades must be returned and the ace of diamonds discarded by South. Now a small spade is played and trumped with the seven of hearts. The eight of hearts then is led and won in dummy with the queen of hearts. The jack of spades is returned and trumped with the nine of hearts. Now the ten of hearts is played and won in dummy with the king. The ace of hearts is played and the king of diamonds discarded. Of course, the trump has been picked up and the queen, jack, ten, nine and eight of diamonds are all good in dummy. Thus, the declarer makes his grand slam.

Today's Contract Problem

North is playing the hand at six spades. East opens a club. Should the declarer attempt to ruff the losing club? Or how would you play the hand?

Solution in next issue. 27

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Motion picture critics who have, over a span of years, watched the influence of the films on national customs, manners and life, to-day are wondering if Paramount's film version of the beloved classic, "Alice in Wonderland", will bring back to public favour the sweet simplicity of the young girl of that era. The picture is now playing at the King's Theatre. Charlotte Henry, who plays Alice, was selected according to Director Norman McLeod, "because she resembled more closely than any of the other 7,000 applicants, the child of pure unclouded brow" who inspired Lewis Carroll's book. Charlotte not only does not drink or smoke, but uses scarcely any make-up of any kind and never has had her eyebrows plucked. The story of the film, "Alice in Wonderland" which also has sequences from "Through the Looking-Glass", is the same as the widely-read book. Alice lives her unusual dream experiences in Looking Glass Land on the screen just as she did in the book. More than forty important Hollywood stars play the parts of the strange people like the Red Queen, the White Mouse, the Dodo Bird and others. Among them are Richard Arlen, Roscoe Ates, Gary Cooper, Leon Errol, Louise Fazenda, W. C. Fields, Skeets Gallagher, Cary Grant, Raymond Hinton, Edward Everett Horton, Roscoe Karns, Baby LeRoy, Mae Marsh, Polly Moran, Jack Oakie, Edna May Oliver, May Robson, Charlie Ruggles, Alison Skipworth, Ned Sparks and Ford Sterling.

"Up to the Neck"

One of the most striking characteristics of Ralph Lynn, whose new British and Dominion picture, "Up to the Neck", is at the King's Theatre on Wednesday, is his extraordinary habit of making impromptu remarks which completely "dry up" those who are working with him. This attribute is always noticeable, whether Ralph is in his off-stage moments. A typical instance occurred during the filming of "Up to the Neck". Jack Raymond directed a property man to make chalk marks round the feet of Winifred Shotter and Ralph Lynn to indicate their positions. As the tall "props" bent to make the chalk marks, Ralph said: "That's right. Mark us Marcus Superbus." "The Blue Angel"

"Falling in Love Again"—never Wanted To—the song which Marlene Dietrich, as Lola, the cabaret singer, sings in "The Blue Angel" is one of the most fetchingly plaintive ballads of the talking screen. Miss Dietrich sings this song several times in the course of the picture. She uses it to snare the staid and unwary Emil Jannings as Professor Kriemhild, who is to amuse the customers in the river-front dives where her travelling troupe is playing. She uses fragments of it at various times as a sort of musical expression of her own philosophy of life. She sings her songs and they are true to her nature. "Falling in Love Again. Never Wanted To," she sings. Beautiful Lola—is she fickle or is she not? Who knows? In a beautiful woman one can forgive almost anything. In spite of the fact that Marlene plays a part which might, in less competent hands, sour the sympathy of audience against her, one is never antagonized by Lola, the cabaret girl. This, no doubt, is a true demonstration of her ability as an actress. When you hear her sing several songs in "The Blue Angel" you'll be bound to like her. No screechy soprano here. Marlene's voice is soft, subdued, contralto.

"Should Ladies Behave"

"Should Ladies Behave" is laden with laughter. Fast farce, sprightly dialogue and unique situations carry through its mirthful course. The film, taken from the stage play, revolves around the emotional yearnings of a flapper and her colleague sweetheart, a neurotic mamma and her elderly hubby, divorcee, and her artist sweetie. The six love-seekers, all under one roof one week-end, with the three females gushing over Max, create the laughter. Aside from its humour, the production has heart interest and registers some neat observations on love—elf, cow and foolish. Alice Brady, as the twittery mother whose heart is still young, carries the bulk of the laughs with a breezy style. Lionel Barrymore gives his usual distinguished performances as the grouchy understanding papa too old for love. Mary Carlisle, easy on the eyes, might well go places on the screen, if properly handled.

SILVER GAMBLE

FATHER COUGHLIN'S HEAVY HOLDINGS.

Detroit, Apr. 29.

The discovery that the Radio League of the Little Flower, of which the renowned Father Coughlin is organizer and head, owned 500,000 ounces of silver, has caused a sensation here and wherever the young priest's oratory and fearless attacks on the Administration have been heard and remembered.

The recently compiled Treasury list of silver holders, allegedly speculating on the rising silver market, disclosed that the 500,000 ounces were held in the name of "A. Collins, Royal Oak, Michigan." This is Miss Amy Collins, secretary-treasurer of the League of the Little Flower. She revealed the fact in a copyright statement issued to-day.

Father Coughlin, in a similar statement, explained and defended the purchases. They were a simple investment, he said.

In a personal copyright statement, Father Coughlin denounced the recent silver investigations and bitterly assailed Mr. Henry Morgenthau, one of President Roosevelt's advisers and Secretary of the Treasury.

Faith in Roosevelt.

Father Coughlin referred only indirectly to the League's investment in silver, but in a joint statement with Miss Collins he said the purchases of silver were made on the word of President Roosevelt that commodities in the United States would be restored to the 1926 price level.

It appears that the League of the Little Flower has suffered severely in the recent silver slump.

Father Coughlin, a Canadian-born priest, is one of the most outstanding of radio speakers in America. His attacks on the Administration have made him many enemies, but thousands of sympathizers. His radio audience is estimated in the millions. Recently, when he announced that unless Congress supported President Roosevelt's monetary policy there would be "a revolution in the United States" which will make the French revolution look silly, it caused a sensation. He is recognized, furthermore, as an economist. He has been heard before the House Coinage Committee.

The League of the Little Flower draws its membership from among Father Coughlin's radio audience and was founded as a social welfare body. —United Press.

Harry Beaumont's direction is well timed and paced for laughs.

"Give Without a Room"

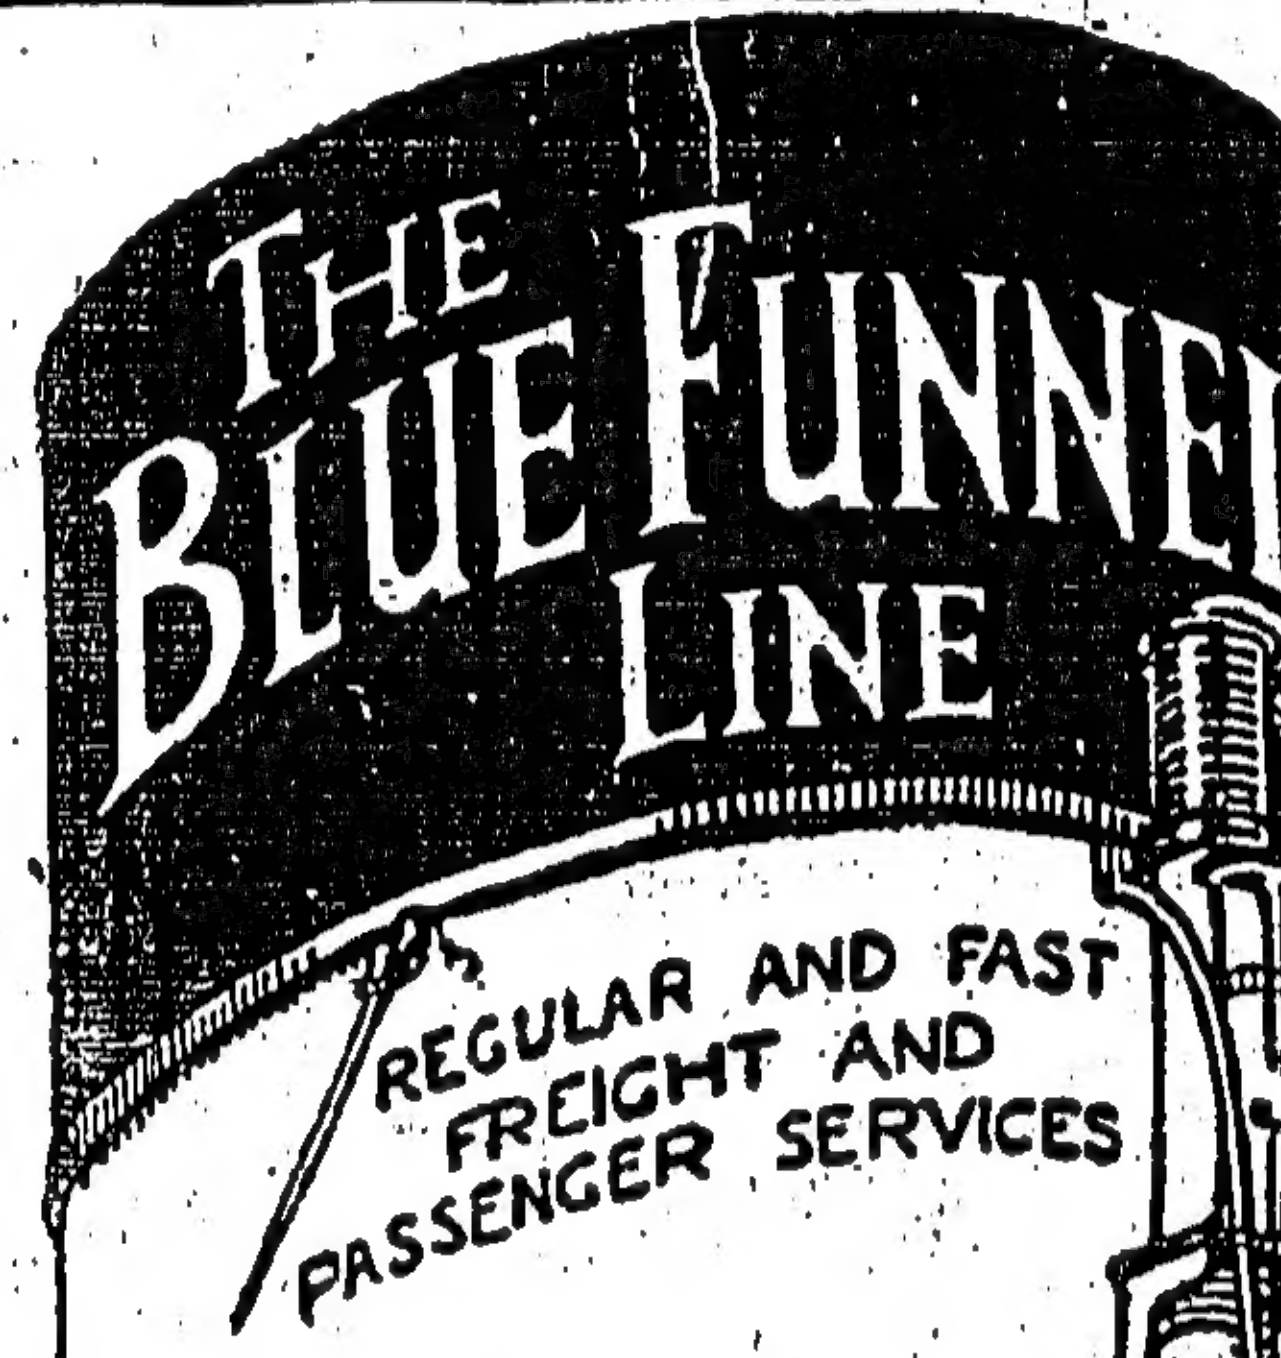

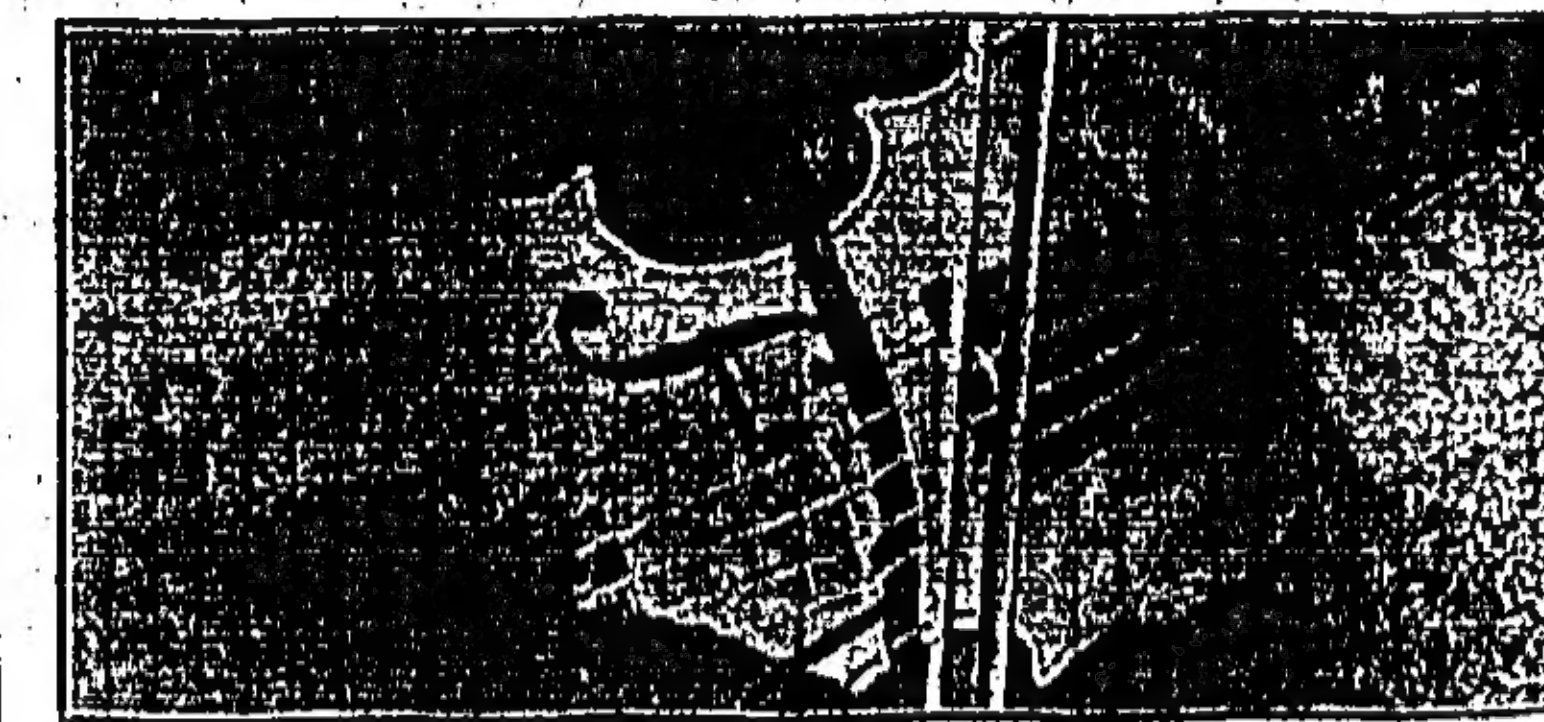

Artists and models—Gay Paree—living songs—sparkling comedy—and tender romance. Such is Charles R. Rogers' "Girl Without a Room," which is coming on Wednesday to the Queen's Theatre with Charles Farrell and Charlie Ruggles. Marguerite Churchill, Gregory Ratoff, Walter Wolf, and Grace Bradley. The picture is exceptionally clever and presents some old favourites in new characterizations and some new favourites in their screen debuts. Charles Farrell becomes the comedian at times and does exceptionally well. Charlie Ruggles is just a bit more madcap than usual in a part that suits him perfectly. Marguerite Churchill, remembered as an ingenue, blossoms forth with a newly acquired sophistication to enact the title role as an artist's model. Grace Bradley playing the Russian vamp has her first important screen role. She showed so much promise in a tiny sequence of "Too Much Harmony" that she was "discovered." She is a rare find. Walter Wolf, a recruit from Broadway musicals, makes his debut in "Girl Without a Room" and should receive flocks of fan mail from the impressionable ladies. And of course, Gregory Ratoff is funny. The story is about Farrell who is a nut artist painting what he feels and not what he sees. He wins a contest with his painting upside down—and from there you take off to high (or is it low) comedy levels.

DINNER DANCE

UNIVERSITY GRADUATES AND CLUB ENTERTAIN

A Ladies' Evening in the form of a dinner dance, organised by the H. K. University Graduates' Association and the University Club, was held at Kian's Restaurant on Saturday night, and was attended by about 90 members and guests. After welcoming the gathering, the President, Mr. R. O. H. Lim, thanked Miss D. Ma for her kindness in rendering a piano selection, and also Mr. Lau Man Hing and his "gang" for voluntarily supplying the excellent dance music.

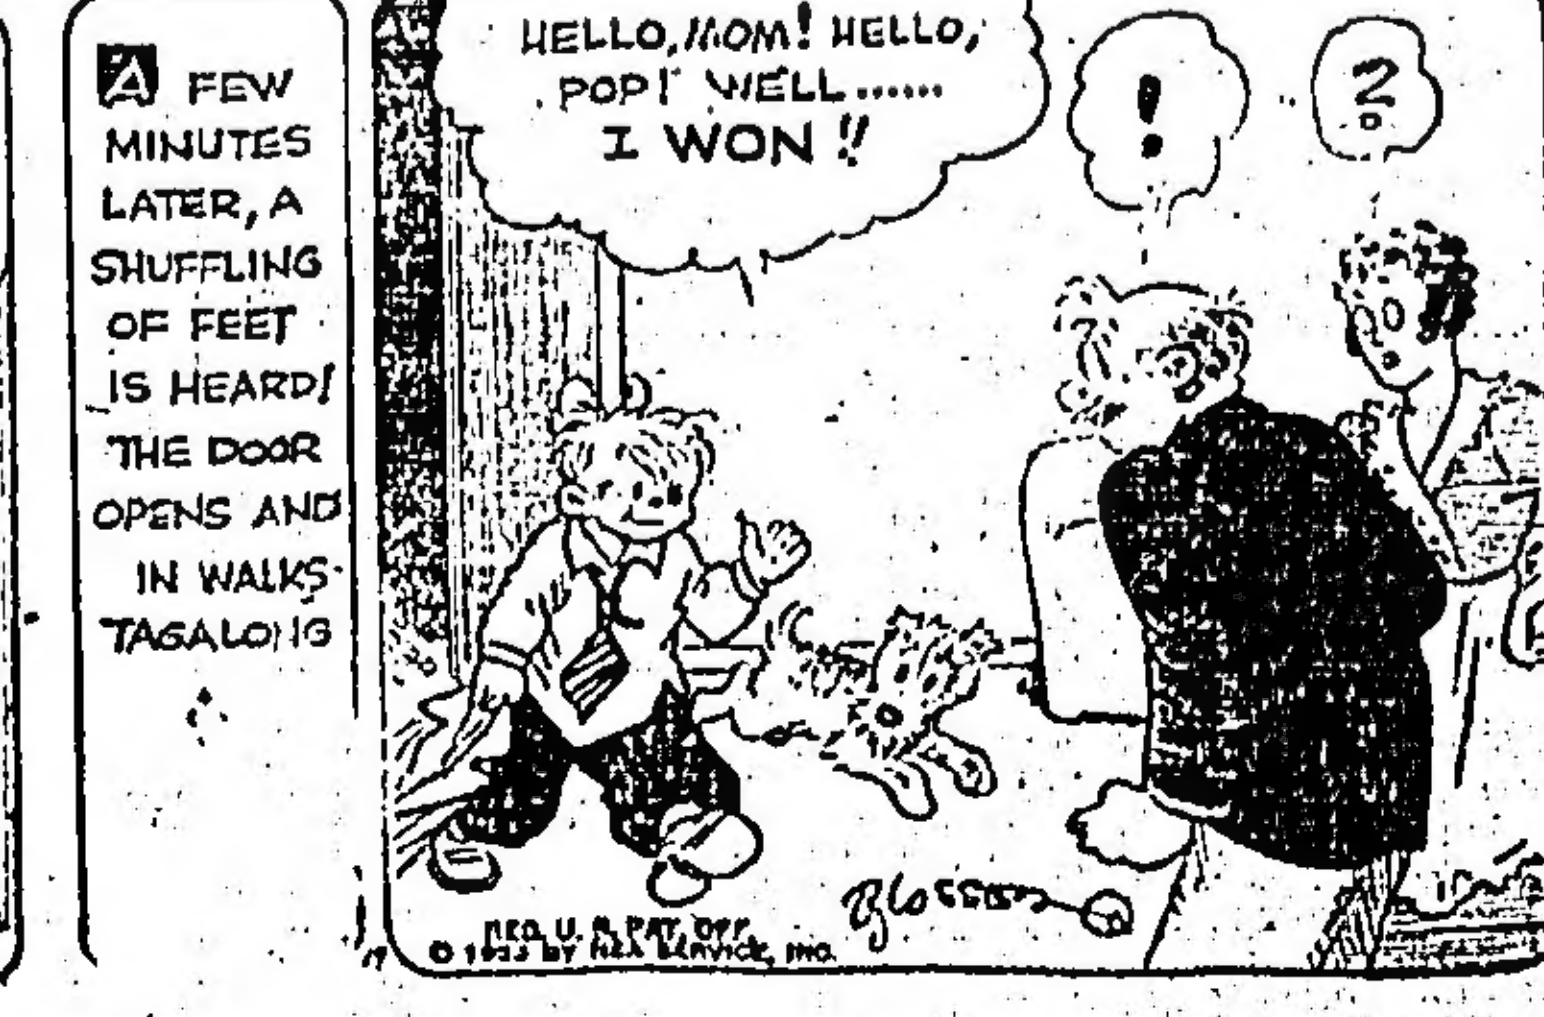

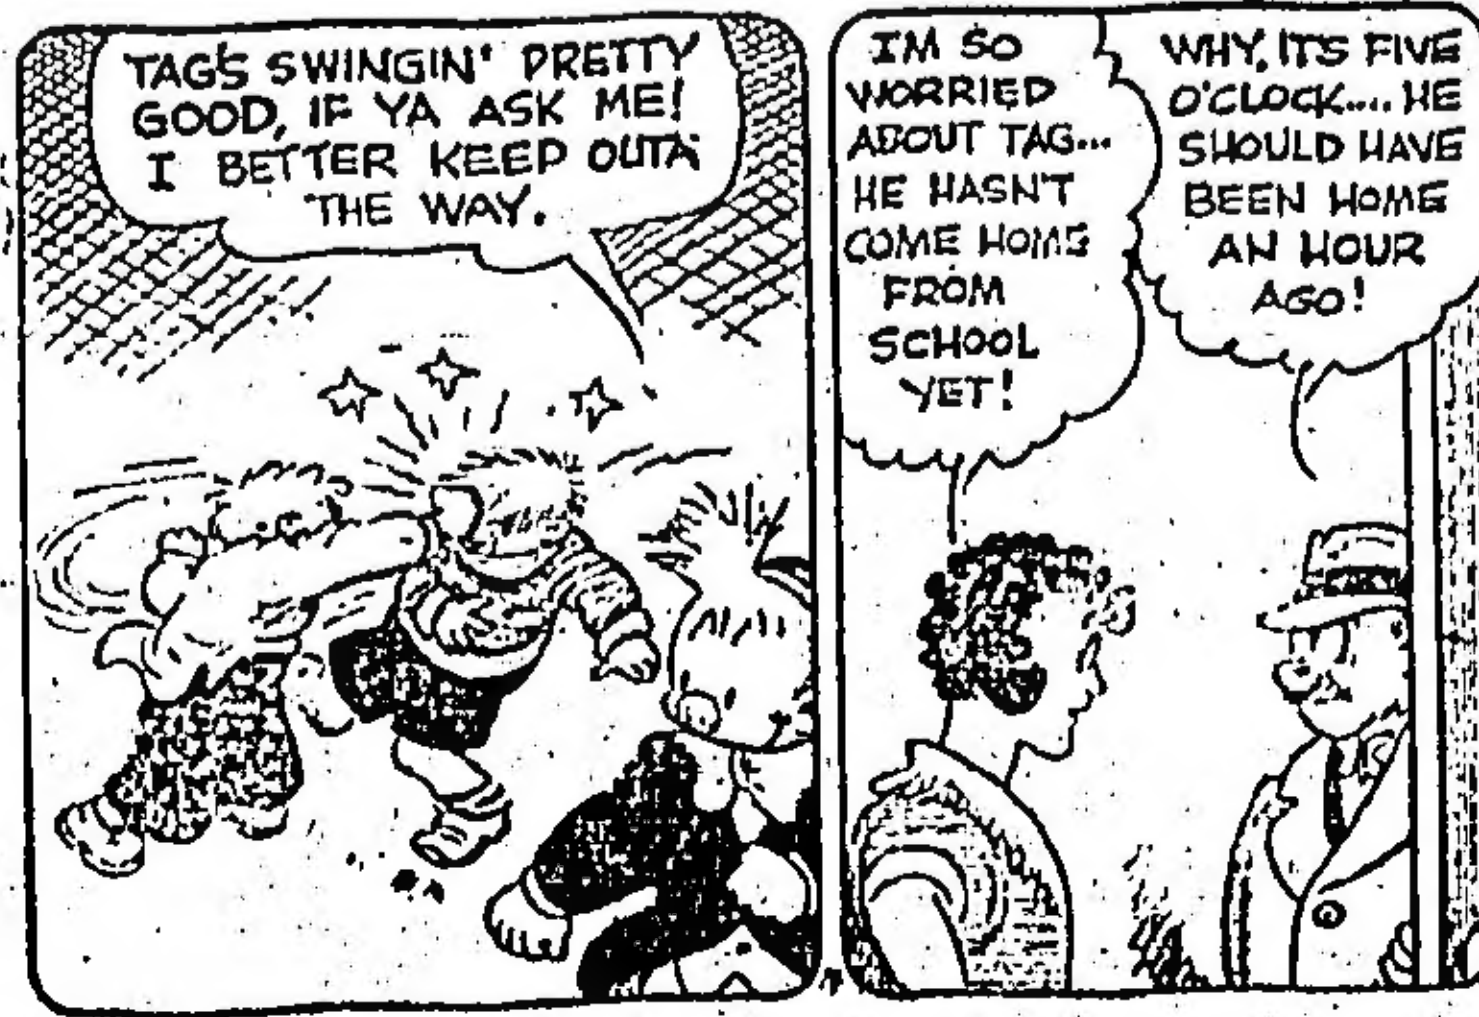

Much of the success of the evening was due to the charming personalities of the hostesses, Miss A. Ho and Miss K. Lai, and the untiring energy of the Hon. Secretary, Dr. K. D. Ling. The dance terminated at midnight.

BOY SCOUTS' RALLY.

FIRST OF SERIES FOR PRINCE OF WALES' BANNER

The first of a series of three Boy Scouts' rallies for the Prince of Wales' Banner was held in the grounds and premises of Sandilands' Hut on Saturday afternoon, nearly two hundred boys, representing eleven troops, participating. The next rally will be held in the autumn and the third will be the camp competition.

The Rev. G. Walgrave, Commissioner and Deputy Camp Chief of the Hongkong Boy Scouts' Association, took charge and was assisted by the Rev. N. V. Halward, M.C., Assistant Commissioner, and Scouters, Mr. E. Cock, M.B.E., President of the Boy Scouts' Association, was also present.

Mr. H. R. Hertzlet, District Commissioner for the Perak Boy Scouts' Association and Assistant Commissioner for Malaya, took part in the rally, being examiner of the knotting tests. Other judges for the knotting tests were Mrs. Poxon, Deep Sea Rover Scout Butler, and Deep Sea Scouts Brent and Vauter. Prior to the troop contest, which was the principal item on the programme, tea was served.

Sixteen boys from each troop were divided into parties of four for the troop contest, which included tests of touch, smell and hearing. At the conclusion of rally, the Deputy Camp Chief thanked everyone for turning out to the rally, which was his last, as he was leaving for home in August. He mentioned that the Rev. Mr. Halward was to be lent to Canton for three months, in order to teach the Canton Scout Masters the right way to carry on the Scouting movement in Canton. He announced that, on his retirement, the Rev. Mr. Halward would become the Commissioner for Hongkong.

The following troops participated: 1st. Hongkong (Sea Scouts), 1st. Hongkong (St. Joseph's College), 2nd. Hongkong (King's College), 10th. Hongkong (St. Paul's College), 15th. Hongkong (Wah Yan College), 1st. Kowloon (St. Andrew's), 11th. Kow-

LESSON SERMON.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, HONGKONG

"Probation After Death was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which was read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, yesterday.

The Golden Text was: "I am the resurrection, and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live: and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die" (John 11:25, 26).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "The Lord is my shepherd: I shall not want. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me" (Psalms 23:1,4). "For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens" (II Cor 5:1).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy: "In the place where the tree falleth, there it shall be." So we read in Ecclesiastes. This text has been transformed into the popular proverb, "As the tree falls, so it must lie." As man falleth asleep, so shall he awake. As death and death mortal man, so shall he be after death, until probation and growth shall effect the needed change (p. 281).

Sandilands' Hut, the headquarters of the Hongkong Girl Guides' Association, was kindly loaned to the Boy Scouts by their sister association.

ART TREASURES

MARQUIS OF ZETLAND'S DISPERSAL SALE

London, Apr. 29. High prices were realised at Christie's dispersal sale of the Marquis of Zetland's magnificent Gobelin's tapestry and other objects of art from his London house in Arlington street.

The whole scheme of decoration was prepared under the direction of Robert Adam in 1763. Gobelin's tapestry and a suite of furniture realised 2,670 guineas. Chippendale suites brought 450 guineas and 312 guineas each, while a pair of Derbyshire candelabras were purchased from the National Art Collection's fund for 170 guineas. Pictures fetched 5,000 guineas in all. A surprise was caused when a twelve by nine-inch portrait by Holbein, representing Anne Boleyn, started at a few guineas and ended at 850 guineas. —Reuter Special.

WOO HAY-TONG MURDER ECHO

BROKER'S CLAIM AGAINST ESTATE

MR. MOK YING-KWAI'S SHARE DEAL

$81,188 ALLEGED TO BE DUE

There was an echo of the tragic death of Mr. Woo Hay-tong, compradore of the shipping department of Messrs. Butterfield and Swire, who was shot dead in his office in June, 1932, when a claim was heard at the Supreme Court this morning by the Chief Justice, Mr. A. D. A. MacGregor for $81,188.93, money alleged to be due to Mr. N. V. A. Croucher, local share-broker, for shares transferred to Mr. Woo a few days prior to his death.

Defendants are Messrs. Strathmore Tatham Butlin and Henry Russell Forsyth, chartered accountants, of Gloucester Building, executors to the estate of the late Mr. Woo Hay-tong, who are represented by Mr. Eldon Potter, K.C., Mr. F. C. Jenkin, K.C., and Mr. H. C. Macnamara, instructed by Messrs. Woo and Nash.

Mr. H. G. Sheldon appeared on behalf of Mr. Croucher.

A SHARE DEAL

Mr. Sheldon, opening the case, said on February 18th, 1932, plaintiff purchased for a client of his named Mok Ying-kwai, 4,000 shares in Messrs. Watson & Co., Ltd., delivery at May settlement at a price of $16.50. About April a new issue was made by Messrs. Watson's and a new block of 1,000 shares of the new issue was taken up at par ($10) and placed to the account of Mr. Mok. Plaintiff was therefore holding for Mok 5,000 shares of Messrs. Watson & Co., Ltd.

Settlement was on May 25 and Mr. Mok did not wish to take delivery and agreed with the plaintiff that the latter carry the shares. The carrying charges agreed were $14 per old share and $10 1/2 per new share. That was under the market rate.

WOO HAY-TONG'S POSITION.

On May 25 the balance payable to plaintiff was $73,210. Of this amount $3,710 was paid. At the end of May the name Woo Hay-tong came into the case. He was a very well-known business man in Hongkong, in fact the compradore of the shipping department of Messrs. Butterfield and Swire, and a brother of Mr. Woo, of Messrs. Woo and Nash. He was generally interested in the share market. At the end of May, Mr. Mok, who was also a relative of Mr. Woo Hay-tong and employed at Messrs. Butterfield and Swire, was indebted in a large sum of money to Woo Hay-tong. He wanted Mr. Woo Hay-tong to realise to him 1,000 shares in the Realty Company which Mr. Woo was holding as security for advances he had made to Mok. Mr. Mok offered to pay Mr. Woo Hay-tong for the release of the Realities $4,000 cash, which Mr. Woo was not willing to take, not unnaturally as Realities on that date were worth $12.

WATSON'S SHARES THROWN IN.

Mr. Mok then offered in addition the 5,000 Watson's shares which were being carried for him by plaintiff, the position being that the Watsons were being carried for Mok against payment of $69,500, whereas in fact the market price at that time was about $16 for old shares and $14 1/2 for the new issue, giving $74,500. It was clear therefore that if Mr. Woo received them at $69,500 he would receive them at $5,000 under the market price.

Mr. Woo Hay-tong agreed to this proposition and stated he would release the 1,000 Realities to Mr. Mok.

That was at the end of May and on June 1 or 2 Woo Hay-tong rang up plaintiff and asked him to call (Continued on Page 5.)

ROYAL VISIT TO AUSTRALIA

PRINCE GEORGE NOT COMING

DUKE OF TO

Prince George's strenuous tour in South Africa coincides with an announcement that he will not carry out the plans for his visit to Australia.

The Duke of Gloucester is to visit Australia and New Zealand in the Autumn in place of Prince George.

His Majesty the King has decided that in view of the heavy strain entailed, it is not advisable for Prince George, after his successful visit to South Africa, to undertake within a year a second important tour of six months' duration.

His Majesty, after consultation with the Governors-General of Australia and New Zealand, has approved the suggestion that the Duke of Gloucester should represent His Majesty in the centenary celebrations of the State of Victoria.

He will carry out the programme arranged for Prince George. The Duke of Gloucester has never yet had an opportunity of visiting Australia and New Zealand, and is pleased at the prospect.—Reuter Special.

UNITED STATES STILL NOT SATISFIED

JAPAN'S MODIFIED POLICY

OPEN QUESTIONS IN FAR EAST

PAST SILENCE NOT CONSENT

(Special to "Telegraph")

Washington, April 29.

Japanese circles in the United States are feeling happier as a result of the distinct modification of Japan's announced policy by Mr. Hirota on Saturday.

They hope that the matter will now become closed, pointing out that the explanation of Japan's policy is virtually the same as Mr. Hirota and other officials have indicated to be Japan's policy in statements issued prior to April 17.

POINTS STILL AT ISSUE.

Administration officials point out, however, that the United States has never indicated acceptance of Japanese policy as outlined to the Diet by Mr. Hirota in January, which included among other things, not approved by America, the separation of Manchukuo and China, and the establishment of the Manchukuo Empire as a fair accompaniment.

There are indications that members of the Administration regard the status of Manchukuo as well as the newly announced policy.

HONGKONG TO LONDON IN 6 DAYS

AIR MAIL PLANS

London, April 30.

The possibility of a direct air mail service between Hongkong and Europe, which will carry mails within five or six days, is believed to be much nearer.

Hongkong will come into the scheme, eventually, by a link-up with a service from Shanghai to Europe.

The inauguration of a direct Shanghai-Berlin-London airmail route, bringing contact between the East and West to within three to four days, was foreshadowed by Mr. Huang Nin-shu, Director-General of the Chinese Postal Administration, before sailing for Canada from Southampton on Saturday.

He said that this development is imminent.

The interests chiefly concerned were only waiting for trial in the Chinese Turkestan to cease before commencing operations.

The service, it is understood, will be operated by the Eurasia Corporation and the machines will be flown by German pilots.—Reuter.

BRITISH BOOKS FOR TOKYO LIBRARY

OVER 55,000 VOLUMES SENT

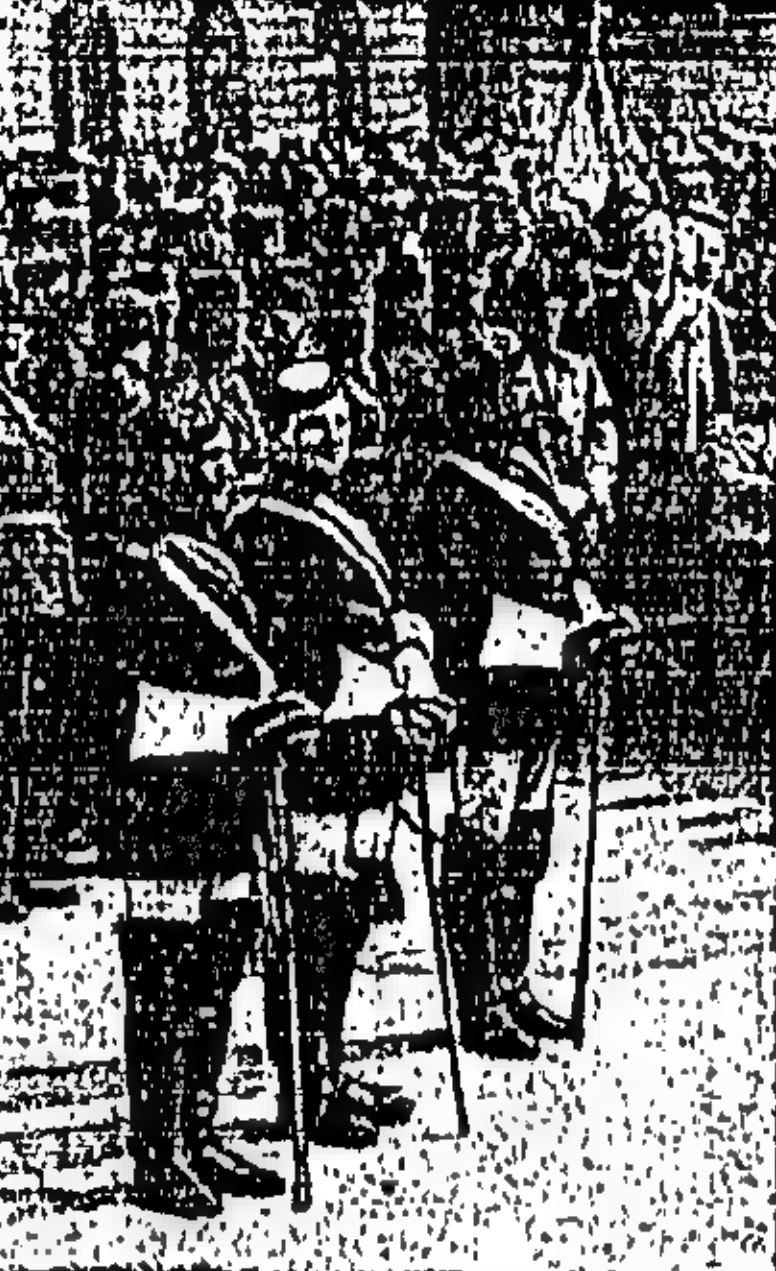

The library of British books in the Tokyo Imperial University, which was destroyed in the disastrous earthquake and fire of September, 1923, has been replaced by British gifts and purchases of between 55,000 and 66,000 volumes.

A report presented by the Foreign Secretary states that the appeal for donations of books met with a most generous response, and resulted in the gift to Japan of about 20,000 volumes.

The remaining 35,639 books were purchased from the £25,000 voted by Parliament in July, 1924. They were despatched in 296 cases, a weight of 41 tons.

Our Canton correspondent writes under date of yesterday:—To-day being the birthday of the Emperor of Japan, all Japanese subjects will attend a ceremony in his honour in the Japanese Consulate where his photograph will be displayed for his subjects to pay their respects. This ceremony will take place at 10 a.m. At noon the Japanese Consul-General Mr. S. Kawagoe, will hold a reception at his residence to which all foreign and Chinese officials are invited. DOLLFUSS SPEECH AT LINZ

ATTEMPT ON LIFE FEARED

EXTRAORDINARY PRECAUTIONS

Vienna, April 29.

To-day's appearance of Dr. Dollfuss in Linz, birthplace of the Socialist revolt of February last, was attended by extraordinary precautions to prevent any attempt upon his life.

Austria officially becomes a Fascist State on May 1, Labour Day, when Parliament will meet to ratify the Constitution and then dissolve.

A crowd of fifty thousand people assembled in the Hauptplatz in Linz to hear Dr. Dollfuss explain the new Constitution and the manner in which it will affect the country.

THOUSAND ARRESTS.

A thousand possible disturbers of the peace were arrested before the arrival of Dr. Dollfuss and to ensure a respectful hearing two hundred uniformed police were sent from Vienna to Linz to assist the local Constabulary.

A hundred secret service agents were distributed among the local hotels and buildings to keep watch for suspicious individuals or groups.

Police were posted in all the windows and on all the roofs overlooking the Hauptplatz.

ARMED BODYGUARD.

Two hundred armed troops of the Auxiliary Corps surrounded the platform from which Dr. Dollfuss spoke.

All peasants arriving at Linz station from the countryside were searched for concealed weapons. The reception accorded Dr. Dollfuss by the huge crowd can only be described as luke-warm, but there was no outward sign of hostility in the Hauptplatz.

Two smoke-bombs were exploded in side-streets and a real bomb burst at the house of the Director of Security, but there were no casualties.—Reuter.

Full-Sleeved Boxy Suits With Patched Pockets Popular With Young Misses

A Spring suit (left) of navy and white checked flannel features a built-up skirt and a sailor collar. The blouse is white, silk plique.
The dressmaker ensemble (below) of soft greyish beige silk crepe has a long-sleeved, dress and matching jacket, trimmed with fox collar. The sweater suit (right) of beige with brown pipings is fashioned of a soft woolen that looks hand-knit.

are doublebreasted with wide rovers, the backs.
For town and country are sure to find dress with boxy, three-quarters coat in monotone and see if it doesn't give you an air. Or reverse the order, checked coat with plain dress, and step out! But insist on huge patch pockets with rather full sleeves. Add a couple of harmonizing separate dresses, and you've practically a wardrobe.

Suit skirt lengths? About the same—with interesting pleats across the back or in both front and back, giving complete freedom for walking.

What to wear with your suit? A decorative blouse in crepe or novelty cotton, colourful twin sweaters or a knitted shirtwaist, depending on the type of suit. And don't forget a scarf!

"I want unpainted kisses"

SHE knew the minute she met him that he was the man of her dreams. But he did not seem attracted to her. It was her own brother, who guessed what was wrong. "Stop using a lipstick that makes you look painted," he said. Then she switched to Tangee. It can't make lips look painted... it isn't paint.

LOOKS ORANGE—ACTS ROSE

In the stick Tangee looks orange. But put it on and you'll see it change on your lips to the natural shade of rose most becoming to you. Instead of a greasy coating, Tangee becomes a very part of you... hence is longer-lasting than ordinary "paint" lipsticks. Tangee's special cream base soothes and softens, prevents lips from drying or chapping. Also in Theatrical, a deeper shade for professional use.

UNTOUCHED—Lips left untouched are apt to have a faded look... make the face seem older.

PAINTED—Don't risk that painted look. It's coarsening and men don't like it.

TANGEE—Intensifies natural color, restores youthful appeal, ends that painted look.

Tangee Cream Rouge is really waterproof. Will not streak or wash away, ideal for sports use. Its cream base protects your skin against drying or chapping. Matches Tangee Lipstick and like it changes to your individual coloring.

BRITISH REVIVAL

THE GOVERNMENT'S ACHIEVEMENTS

London, Apr. 28. The President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Runciman, expressed optimistic views on National recovery in a speech at Cardiff last night.

He claimed for the National Government a measure of credit for seventeen achievements. These were: Balancing the budget and remitting 6d off income tax; the payment of millions on the Unemployment Insurance Fund; restoration of economy cuts to unemployed; saving of about £40,000,000 in annual interest charges by conversion operations; helping industrial organisation and local authorities by cheapening money; making money available at a lower rate than for two generations; arranging

ing trade agreements that had lowered tariffs in foreign markets (he had signed nine agreements and seven more were being negotiated); nearly 700,000 more people at work and those employed in many trades had more work to do than a year or two ago; a steady rise in industrial securities and dividends reappearing; an improvement in the iron and steel trade; a slight improvement in coal, mainly in the North; the passing of an Act stimulating the production of motor spirit from coal and other indigenous products; legislation helping agriculture and bold experiments in organised marketing; the passing of the greatest town and country planning Act in history; more done towards relieving than by any previous Government; opening of the greatest crusade against slums ever attempted in any country; a great piece of constructive social reform, namely the Unemployment

Insurance Bill, about to be made law.

Referring to shipping, Mr. Runciman said that if the Government was going to assist, their help should be not only for ship-owners, but also for officers and crews.—British Wireless.

Fighting For Power

London, Apr. 29. An important article by Mr. Stanley Baldwin in the monthly Journal, Liberal National Review, pleads against the return of party warfare.

Between the Left demanding Dictatorship and the Right advocating autocracy there are, perhaps, six parties competing for votes, says Mr. Baldwin. There is a grave danger that Socialism, controlled by extremists, and strongly tainted by Communism, will return to Power.

Only the maintenance of the National Government can consolidate the gains of the past two years.—Our Own Correspondent.

A GUILD STATE

NEW CONSTITUTION OF AUSTRIA

Vienna, Apr. 29.

An official account of the new constitution of the Austrian "Guild State" has been given to the Press by Dr. Otto Ender, Minister for Constitutional Reform.

The statement shows that, in case of failure of the proposed Federal Council to act on Government Bills, the Government is empowered to proclaim emergency martial law.

The word "Republic" has been dropped from the official title of the State, and it is believed that laws against the Hapsburgs will be omitted from the new constitution.—Reuter.

CHAPTER XXXV

Pablito, returning from town that afternoon, raised his eyes from the dusty road to see an Englishman who appeared to be wandering aimlessly.

"Are you looking for the gymnasium?" he asked.

"No, I'm waiting for a friend who is doing a bit of sparring. Are you (the Englishman eyed the young man intently) Junnito? I mean Senor Junnito?"

"I'm Junnito," Pablito answered. He liked the appearance of this stranger. He had never seen anyone quite like him before at the gymnasium. Nevertheless he was rather surprised to hear him add, "Would you care to come to my rooms to wait for your friend? I'd be glad to have you—"

"Thank you," Sir Aubrey answered. "You're most kind."

"I live over that shop," Pablito explained with a wave of his hand. Together they crossed the road and went up the long stairway. At the top Sir Aubrey looked about.

"Snug place you have here," he said approvingly.

"A little bare," Pablito answered. "Ah, well, a man's castle. I hear you go in a bit for boxing?"

"A bit," Pablito answered, smiling. Then he asked, "Will you have a drink?"

Sir Aubrey murmured, "Ah, thanks awfully! That would be good, you know!"

Pablito rang a small hand bell and a slovenly criada appeared.

"What is it?" Pablito asked Sir Aubrey.

"Oh? What?" the other questioned.

"I mean what'll you have?" Pablito translated.

"Oh, I see. A whiskey and soda?"

"I'll have one with you," Pablito agreed. "It will be a rare dissipation for me. I take a drink only about once a year. Have to go slow to keep in training, you know."

"Oh, quite!"

Pablito felt suddenly warmed for the first time since he had received Estelle's note. The lank, lean Englishman's eyes were fixed on the youth unflinchingly. They were frankly, almost pitifully affectionate eyes. Pablito was conscious of a strange feeling that most people have known at one time or another—a feeling that makes it seem as if, living, we have stepped into an unreal dream.

"Hang it!" he thought. "What's come over me?" To the stranger he said, "Is this your first trip to Cuba?"

"No, I've been here once before," "Like it here?"

"No. To be frank, I don't like it much. Have you ever been in England?"

"No," Pablito answered.

"Ah, you must come! You must come!" The criada appeared as Sir Aubrey was speaking, bringing glasses, a syphon and a squat, brown bottle on a tarnished tray.

"What is it?" Pablito asked Sir Aubrey.

"Oh? What?" the other questioned.

"I mean what'll you have?" Pablito translated.

"Oh, I see. A whiskey and soda?"

"What is it?" Pablito asked Sir Aubrey.

"Oh? What?" the other questioned.

"I mean what'll you have?" Pablito translated.

She set the tray on the table and disappeared from the room. There was the bubbling spurt from the syphon and Pablito tendered Sir Aubrey his drink. He was surprised to note that the older man's hand shook. He had thought him to be "in good shape."

Glass in hand, Pablito motioned Sir Aubrey to a chair and then sat down himself. Sir Aubrey began to speak of England—the hedges, the lanes, the order and quiet. He spoke of houses which grew more beautiful as they were lived in year after year; of great trees; of all that was to him most beautiful in the land of his fathers, the only land where he could do more than exist.

"I think I'd like it," Pablito said as Sir Aubrey's voice dropped away. "Some times it seems to me that all my life I've been hunting a sort of permanence which is always just out of reach. I haven't had much to go on—"

He saw Sir Aubrey's eyes fill and was surprised and embarrassed by the sight.

"You must come—whenever you're over there—to visit me at my place at Lower Giralda," Sir Aubrey said with a shaken eagerness. He set his glass on the tray again because the increased trembling of his hand did not permit him to hold it steadily. This boy was his son! This splendidly strong, tall youth with the steady, even look. He wanted intensely to lay his arm across Pablito's broad shoulders. Instead he must sit and sip his drink. Some day, however—

"If God was kind—some day—"

"Refreshing," he said as he finished the whisky and soda. "No end refreshing. Thanks awfully. You—enjoy living here?"

"Oh, I guess so," Pablito answered slowly. He added with more energy in his tone, "I like Cuba."

"You know, I'm keenly interested in Cuban houses—"

"Want to look over this apartment?" Pablito offered.

"Oh, I say, that's no end kind of you—if you don't mind!"

"This is my sleeping room," Pablito said a few minutes later. Sir Aubrey paused at the doorway.

A little later he and Pablito stood at the door of the gymnasium to meet the peripatetic and anguished Billings. Seeing Billings, Pablito smiled for the first time since the ache had settled in his heart the night before.

"Your friend doesn't seem too happy," he said. Sir Aubrey guffawed loudly. Later as he and Billings were about to leave Sir Aubrey clung to Pablito's hand.

"I hope you'll come again," Pablito said, a trifle ill at ease.

"As friends," Billings promised after a groan. "As friends!"

As atoms spring together after separation and as certain elements in chemical laboratories can not be kept apart, so human groups seem destined to inter-weave.

Jim Field suggested to Marcia Treadway that she become a member of a group he was inviting for a yacht cruise. "I've got to get Estelle away," he said with a deepening of the worried line that was now almost permanently etched between his coarse, heavy eyebrows. "I've got to divert her."

"She has rather a one-track mind, I'm afraid," Marcia stated.

"I don't know. She's young."

"Yes, but determined."

"Well, she'll have to get over it. She'll have to. How about it, Marcia, will you come?"

"I haven't anything else to do," she answered, thereby accepting the invitation.

"I'm going to take young Alec Davis," Field went on. "I hope—"

—I hope very much that he and Estelle will make a match of it."

"So you're beginning that?" she questioned with a lazy smile.

"Well, help it along where you can," he entreated. "You can do that much, can't you?"

Oh, I suppose so," she agreed.

Carlito, another human atom of the group of which Jim Field was the centre, heard of the sailing of the Field yacht. His mother, a toothless old crone, told him about it as they sat in her kitchen. She was holding Carlito's son in her arms.

"Already," she said, relief making her tone bright, "they are well at sea!"

"But he will come back," said Carlito who had sworn vengeance with all the hot fury of which a Latin is capable.

"Ah, my son!" the old woman murmured sadly. Carlito made no answer. Again in his mind he was stooping over his young wife who had lain in the dust. Again he was calling her futilely, again feeling her growing coldness within his arms.

"See the child!" said Carlito's mother. "He is to be a strong boy who will give you much happiness—"

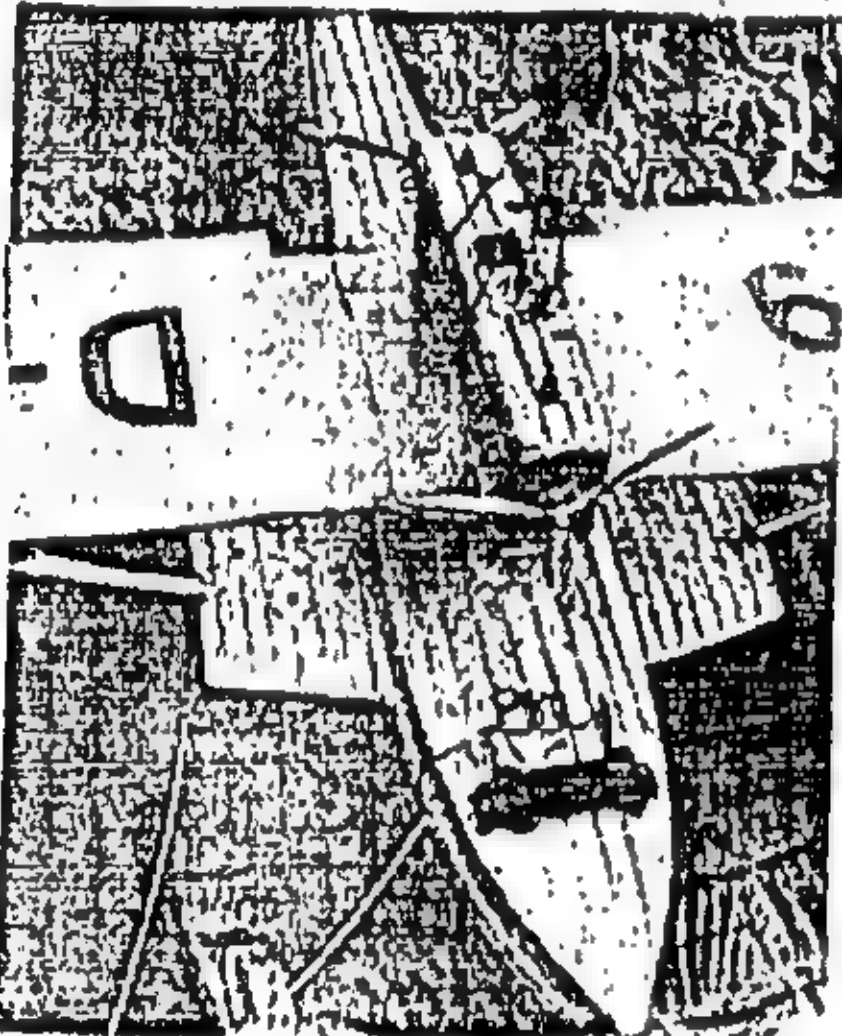

Carlito looked absently at his son who, with Field, had killed her. He would go to Field when the man was alone. He would torture him a little while and then—

Carlito smiled and his mother, seeing the smile, was heartened.

"Ah," she said, lifting the baby, "there is much in the world—even for the sorriest of us—to make the lift of the lips."

"Yes," Carlito agreed. "Each of us has his dream!"

round and see him. When plaintiff arrived there was a short discussion about the value of Watson's shares and Mr. Woo asked plaintiff if he had in fact any Watson's shares belonging to Mr. Mok. Mr. Croucher would say that Mr. Woo was anxious to get the Watson's. Messrs. Watson & Co. were a small company with an issued capital of $100,000 shares, and at that time a block of 5,000 shares was not particularly easy to come by. They were fairly strong.

In answer to Mr. Woo's query regarding Mr. Mok's holding of Watson's shares, plaintiff said he could not discuss his client's business in his absence so Mr. Mok was called in. When he arrived he told them that plaintiff held 5,000 shares for him. Plaintiff then went into details of the transaction, the price at which he was carrying the shares and mentioned the ordinary rate of interest of 1 per cent. per month.

TRANSACTION CONFIRMED.

Mr. Woo then stated that he wanted to know from Mr. Mok the Watson's shares, a statement Mr. Mok confirmed. The transaction was thereby put through.

Mr. Croucher then asked Mr. Woo how long he wished him to carry the shares to which Mr. Woo replied that he did not think he was going to keep them. If they improved he would probably sell them.

Rather naturally, plaintiff asked what would become of his brokerage because it was quite clear that if Mr. Woo intended to sell after a few days after the transaction was put through Mr. Croucher's profit would be only 1 per cent. per month for a few days only. Mr. Woo then told plaintiff that, if he sold he would put the sale through plaintiff so there would be no loss of brokerage.

LETTER OF CONFIRMATION.

Mr. Mok went away a short while afterwards but before he went Mr. Woo told plaintiff he would like him to write a letter confirming the transaction. This Mr. Croucher did the same morning and took to Messrs. Butterfield and Swire to Mr. Woo.

As far as plaintiff was concerned the transaction was that Woo Hay-tong had taken over the shares and Mr. Mok's liability had ceased. On several occasions between June 2 and 18 plaintiff saw Mr. Woo and asked him if he intended selling the shares. But on June 18 Mr. Woo Hay-tong was shot to death in his office and his estate ultimately became vested with Messrs. Forsyth and Butlin as executors.

"NO RECORD."

Plaintiff, when he heard they were appointed executors told Mr. Forsyth of the transaction. Mr. Forsyth informed plaintiff that there was no record in the papers left by Mr. Woo and plaintiff then stated that there must be a letter somewhere among them which he himself had written concerning the transaction. Mr. Forsyth replied he had no letter and that things were in a mess. Mr. Woo's books were difficult to clarify.

After Mr. Croucher had seen Mr. Forsyth on several occasions Mr. Forsyth one day informed him that the letter had come to light.

There was an entry in book kept by Mr. Woo Hay-tong in his own handwriting that the Realties were in fact released. Correspondence between the two parties was then read.

Plaintiff, it was stated, received a letter on July 27, 1933 from Messrs. Woo and Nash that Counsel was of the opinion that there was not sufficient evidence for the executors to admit the claim.

Previous to that Mr. Mok had written to Plaintiff asking for a statement in writing as to what had happened with regard to the Watson's. That was written, said Mr. Sheldon, because Mr. Mok was being sued by the executors of Woo Hay-tong's estate and evidence of the transaction would increase or decrease his indebtedness.

MR. CROUCHER'S EVIDENCE.

Mr. Croucher was then called and corroborated the opening statement made by Mr. Sheldon, and stated that just after the death of Mr. Woo, the value of the shares fell as the market knew Woo held some of the shares and also because of the outbreak of cholera in Canton which had affected Watson's business in regard to aerated waters sales.

In answer to Mr. Jenkin, plaintiff stated that he first contracted to purchase for Mok 4,000 Watson's in February, 1932, during November 1931, but on February 18 he failed to take up the shares and a new contract was entered into. There was a difference of $3,500 payable by Mok, which was settled.

Under a fresh contract made on February 18 Mok became liable to take up the 4,000 Watson's on May Settlement day, but when May Settlement day arrived he again failed to take them up and asked witness to carry them.

Asked why he agreed to do that witness replied:

It was a good out-let for money and I was under the market and had a certain amount of margin.

LEDGER ENTRY ISSUE.

Mr. Jenkin: In the ledger there is no entry that you agreed to carry these shares under the verbal agreement of May 25.—Witness: You must work in conjunction with the settlement book.

But to this day there is no record in the settlement book of Mok ever having been discharged from any obligation.—That is so.

Is it not curious then that your books do not show that Mok was discharged from this heavy liability?—It is shown by the letter I have written to Woo Hay-tong.

Your books do not show that Mok was discharged of his liability of $69,500?—There is nothing in my books.

There is nothing in your books to show that this liability was transferred from Mok to Woo?—I do not think so, except that you have Mr. Woo's account.

MR. MOK'S ACCOUNT.

Was the financial position between you and Mok this that at May settlement day you were carrying shares against $135,000 for Mok which were worth only $137,000. These shares were 3,000 Cements, 1,000 Hotels, 4,000 Watsons old and 1,000 Watsons new?—Yes.

Do you still say you had a good margin on these shares?—It was satisfactory to me.

Would you have put your own money into Watsons at that time?—Yes.

Two days after the transaction between Woo and Mok they fell, did they not?—I am not aware of that.

And the inability of Mok to take up the shares caused you no anxiety I suppose?—None.

Do you know that at the time of his death Woo Hay-tong had about $450,000 out as security against shares?—Yes.

But for Woo's suggestion that this letter regarding the transaction be written it is probable that this letter would never have come into existence?—Probably.

CURIOUS FACT.

At the time of his death Woo Hay-tong had well over a million dollars cash available and ready tion in the Dutch East Indies, but the authorities there may be assumed to be confident of being able to perform what is left to them as a task of internal administration.

The newspaper anticipates a sustained and quiet rise in the price rather than an upward rush in the price of raw rubber.

A Mining Lane authority, in an interview with the Morning Post is of opinion that the scheme is satisfactory and workable. It is very probable, he said, that the governments concerned have unofficially expressed general agreement with the terms so that there should be no reason why the scheme should not be put into operation as from June 1.

9D. PER IS PROBABLE.

It is not likely that a pivotal price has been mentioned, but the price aimed at is probably not below ninepence a pound, though it might be some time before such a price can be reached.

It is pointed out further that the vital question of restriction shipments has not yet been dealt with.

India's rubber export quota has been fixed as follows: 1934, 6,850 tons; 1935, 8,250 tons; 1936, 9,000 tons; 1937, 9,000 tons; 1938, 9,250 tons.

Burma is permitted in 1934, 5,150 tons; 1935, 6,750 tons; 1936, 8,000 tons; 1937, 9,000 tons; 1938, 9,250.—Reuter.

at hand that he could do with as he would. Is it not curious under the circumstances, almost unbelievable, that he should want to borrow—for that is what it amounts to—$69,500 from you?—Yes.

The case is proceeding.

WAGING WAR ON MALARIA

For ten years the Health Section of the League of Nations has been fighting malaria and now has an excellent report to present to the world. This job by the League may be looked upon as one of the most useful pieces of salvage done after the Great War. From 1914 onwards, malarial mosquitoes had the time of their lives. Doctors had other things to think about. Money could not be spared for anti-malarial work. Armies of refugees carried infection across the frontiers. War and post-war conditions encouraged the disease everywhere. In Italy, during the war, malarial mortality increased by over 600%. In Greece, the death-rate doubled. There were thirteen-and-a-half million cases in Russia during a single year—four times as many as in pre-war days. Similar stories came from Poland, Bulgaria, Rumania and Yugo-Slavia, while the situation in Asia and Africa assumed alarming proportions. So, in 1923, the League of Nations was called into action. Its special sub-committee of experts later developed into the Malaria Commission. Fifty-four of the world's leading specialists are to-day helping the League to complete its task. Three main lines of approach have produced satisfactory results. First, it has been necessary to find out why malaria occurs in some countries and not in others, although mosquitoes may be present in both cases. Useful discoveries have been made by studying conditions in Great Britain, Holland, and Denmark. Secondly, the production and sale of quinine has been dealt with. In order to overcome the world shortage, interesting experiments have been directed towards finding an effective substitute for this drug. Thirdly, in the most heavily infected countries, the League has organised special epidemiological enquiries. The first study tour in 1924 revealed the local conditions in Bulgaria, Greece, Italy, Rumania, Russia and Yugoslavia. Next year, Palestine and Spain were visited; in 1926, Corsica and Sicily; in 1927, the United States of America; and in 1929 India, Albania, Persia and Siam also received assistance from the League. Meanwhile, in the course of a general enquiry, information was collected from the health administrations of 93 malarial countries and territories. These, it was estimated, represented three-quarters of the population of the globe. Naturally hard work and patience were needed to co-ordinate this mass of material. To-day the results are justifying the League's vast expenditure of effort.

NOTES OF THE DAY PHILIPPINE INDEPENDENCE

Mr. Quezon declares himself to be well satisfied with the new legislation granting independence to the Philippines and it is hardly to be doubted that his personal influence in the Islands is such that the new proposals will be accepted by the Filipino people. They mark a distinct advance upon the provisions of the Hare-Hawes-Cutting Act. Full independence has been secured, becoming automatic within ten years and during the period of transition, governmental reforms will take place virtually conceding a constitution similar to Dominion status in the British Empire. It can scarcely be denied, therefore, that the new legislation goes far towards meeting the aspirations of the Filipinos. Doubt only arises when the economic provisions are studied and here the same objections that caused the refusal of the offer made a year ago appear.

ECONOMIC HANDICAPS

The welfare of the Philippines in the economic sphere has received less consideration than the interests of American competitors. The Filipino trade in sugar, coconut oil and yarn fibre is jeopardised. Perhaps President Roosevelt hopes, by the exercise of tariff powers which he is seeking from Congress, that he can ease the difficulties certain to develop, but the powerful American interests which wrote into the law a long list of specific provisions threatening the economic stability of the Islands are certain to resist such benevolence to the last ditch. On the political side, the Filipinos are fully assured; the economic they are required to surrender a hard-won position, which makes the grant of independence a shabby sort of gift. Their association with the United States has naturally resulted in concentration of Filipino trade in serving the American market. If severance of political relations involves also the loss of much of their export trade to the United States, existence as an independent republic may be started amid acute economic distress.

TEST TOURISTS

The Australian cricketers have been received in England with the warmest of welcomes. If it was necessary, which it is difficult to believe, they have been put completely at their ease concerning the cricket in England of the unfortunate leg-theory bowling controversy. No hard feelings have been harboured. The Englishman would feel a very serious void in his cricket should anything occur to prevent the periodical tests of skill provided by the meetings of England's and Australia's foremost players. The present tour, as will proceed, we are sure, as though the word "body-line" had never been coined or heard of, provided sensation-seeking scribes do not set out to create mischief. It is a regrettable fact that journalists far more than cricketers or crowds were responsible for the bad spirit that arose as a result from the last tour in Australia.

TOP HATS

The decision to form a club at Westminster for restoring the former glories of parliamentary headgear is a welcome sign that Great Britain still preserves unimpaired her ancient standards of On the eve of the conquest of Canada, as General Wolfe sailed up the St. Lawrence, reading Gray's "Elegy" to his men, he said, "I would rather have written that poem than take Quebec." Soon afterward, he did take Quebec; and on that occasion few were his opponents who would have appreciated the jauntyness of Mr. Walt Disney's most celebrated villain. Nearly two hundred years have passed since then, but Britain happily remains little changed in spirit, still thinking of such matters as poetry on such things as war. For just before the 1934 budget was introduced, the chief topic of discussion in London was not the possibility of a reduction in income tax, but the desirability of an increase in top hats.

SYMBOL OF PEACE

The immediate object of the Top Hat Club at Westminster is, of course, the restoration of that article of attire to its former popularity with M. P.s. But Mr. Robert Lynd sees far more in it than that. Thomas Carlyle embodied an entire philosophy in a suit of clothes; and Mr. Lynd balances a whole political system on the shining crown of the top hat. This, he says, is a symbol of peaceful, satisfied, prosperous conservatism. It is impossible to conceive of a revolution being carried through by men in top hats. In other words, the Disarmament Conference would go far toward calming the angry passions of nations if only it could persuade the haberdashers to sell more top hats and fewer coloured shirts.

AN APPEAL FOR CHINESE UNITY

By H. T. ONG

Sir,—In view of recent reports indicating a hardening of the attitude of political leaders in the South West against the National Government's efforts to bring them within its fold, will you be good enough to permit a Shanghai subscriber of your paper a little space in your columns to voice the sincere regret of Chinese opinion here and elsewhere in this country against the incomprehensible manoeuvres of our Southern fellow-countrymen.

I have been specially impelled to raise at least such feeble protest as is in my power, by the present deadlock in the negotiations for absorption of the branch political organ by the Central body, which in recent weeks had appeared to be proceeding smoothly to the complete satisfaction of all parties concerned, and which culminated in the attack made on the Government by the circular telegram of the South-West Kuomintang Executive Committee dated the 14th April, and reported in the Shanghai Evening Post, two days ago.

The said telegram after warning the Government of the political implications of falling in with Japanese claims for resumption of the postal services and through railway traffic between this country and Manchuria, concluded with what appears to my mind to be a strikingly unjustifiable denunciation of Nanking's policy in regard to the Manchurian question and a personal attack on General Huang Fu, the Government's representative in the North.

I have no intention of indulging in any special pleading on behalf of the National Government, whether rightly or otherwise. But as a Chinese citizen I wish to register the resentment that all fair-minded loyal Chinese must feel against the petty opposition tactics of the South West, which consist wholly and solely of destructive criticism.

As the cradle of the National Revolution the South West, must forever stand high in our esteem. Furthermore, no one will seriously doubt the genuineness of the patriotism of the leaders in those provinces. But "Patriotism is not enough." China is admittedly facing one of the biggest crises of her existence. And the present is not the time for empty talk—of which the most reprehensible form is destructive criticism—but for action consistent with one's political convictions.

Along with numbers of our countrymen sincerely following the course of the negotiations between the central and branch political organs, and hoping sincerely that the result will give more power to the elbow of the men in charge of the ship of State, I for one cannot escape the conviction that the National Government has done everything possible to meet all reasonable aspirations that could be entertained by the leaders in the South West. Despite all this, no progress whatever has been made. I cannot yet believe that it is entirely hopeless to expect achievement, of the all-desirable end of settling the South West to give its wholehearted moral and political backing to our Government. The age of corrupt self-seeking politicians, who would sell their country to fill their pockets, every Chinese fervently trusts is past.

It is an open secret that the uncompromising South West constitutes the one and only remaining obstacle to perfect national unity. Repeatedly it has taken steps which delight the hearts of our national enemies, by proclaiming a line of policy in direct contrast to that of the National Government. Independent notes to foreign powers, and to the League, and other similar action discrediting the Government in the eyes of the world, have lent weight to Japanese defamations of "disorganised," and the like. The net result is that the Government in the face of South Western criticism, often is rendered helpless to adopt a steady policy. At times, in trying to please everybody it has ended in pleasing nobody. And on every occasion the South West, which alone could nerve and strengthen the Government's hand, has been the foremost to censure the latter for weakness, for which the South West's non-co-operation itself is mainly responsible.

Any impartial study of the problems as they really face the Government will convince one that whatever steps to the prejudice of our country and our cause have been taken, they have been taken out of sheer painful necessity, after all other possible avenues have been explored and found impossible. The Government has been in the unenviable plight of coping not only with the most unprecedented crises, but is also saddled with the Herculean task of cleaning out the Augean stables of misgovernment left by its predecessors. Is it any wonder that the Government cannot perform the superhuman feats, which apparently were the minimum that would satisfy South Western critics?

Not one single contribution to National policy has been made by those that have been the foremost and readiest to condemn. The Government has said to each and every one of these critics, "Come and lend your judgment to us, so that jointly we may be able to formulate the best possible policy." And this frankness has, and to say, apparently failed to be reciprocated by equal frankness.

In normal times the Government would perhaps adopt an attitude which may be summed up in less elegant parlance as "Bither help us, or shut up." But the present is not the time for personal, class, or regional resentment. In the National cause, neither class nor race, party nor province must raise a distinction; but all must work with one heart and speak with one voice for the common weal. Can the leaders of the South West fail to realise this obvious paramount duty and still arrogate to itself pride of place as Chinese patriots? To this question there can obviously be only one answer.

The Very Idea! OLD HONGKONG—THE TRUTH!

By George

THE "Old Hongkong" series of articles gives away a lot of other people's past but owing no doubt to the inherent modesty of the Press, the weekly feature seldom touches on the history of the newspapers in this Colony.

There appears to have been so little news in those days what with the absence of local scandal and the foreign news service, that the newspapers were limited to telling tales of each other. Headlines such as these were frequent occurrences:

Editor Imprisoned

Fourth Sentence On Upholder
of Public Rights

Justice Blate Copy Book

Or again—
Government Wakes Up

Contemptible Contemporary's
Convict Caged

So frequent were some of former scribes in their visits to the "Victoria" that a Press Club is believed to have been run there with the connivance of the jailers. One Editor moved in with his family and furniture and had his letter-paper headed "Old Vic." This club came abruptly to an end when an editor proved unfaithful to the cause and gained a scoop over his rivals by publishing a complete revelation of the ease and corruption of prison life.

When warring with the Government became monotonous the papers turned against each other and we find little items such as this.

"The Mac" yarn related by the Daily Post the other day as a genuine and original joke against Scotch engineers is as old as Granny herself and nearly as feeble."

This gained the subscription of the Scotemen but lost the support of the few grannies in the Colony. The malign and long suffering humorist reports:—"We should like to have an impartial opinion on the value of the issues of that pennyworth of filth and degradation the Daily Post."

"Our opinion of course is open to the charge of prejudice but we think very strongly that nothing feebler in the newspaper line has ever been foisted on the generous and open minded public of this Colony—and we are not forgetting the existence of the Daily Star."

"There must be some special charm in whisky-washy lubrications of the prattling scribes of our mudheaded contemporary but we can remain assured that as long as their lascivious and vicious appeal is confined to the dubious and uneducated clientele for whom they cater, we of the more enlightened organ of public opinion and thought have little to fear."

When quoting from other local papers, the quoters never failed to apologise for printing this "journalistic swill" and if attacked themselves retorted that they would reply if they could "detect the circulation of the alleged newspaper."

When telegrams were started there was considerable opposition to one paper attributing its news to "Special Telegrams."

Says one such:—"Now why should this news—which appears to have as much local interest as the death of the late lamented Queen Anne—have induced our notoriously stingy contemporary to have gone to the totally unnecessary expense of a telegram? But did they pay for it? No we think not. We think it was sent by some friend who wanted the news made public and our contemporary is therefore a consummate humbug."

But to come to more recent days we may say that we had the privilege of interviewing an editor quite recently. He received us with a Telegraph in one hand and scissors and paste in the other. We shook hands without giving cut or paste and asked him for his views on this contemporary.

"I have nothing but admiration and envy for your paper," he said. "Your news is good, accurate and well-laid out. I always know where to turn for my lender and the little stray bits that one's own staff is bound to miss and when I want to laugh I look up your little column and enjoy a good half hour. There is only one little point I would like to draw your attention to, and that is your court work. Recently I have been obliged to send one of my own men down as your paper has not been publishing quite enough of the cases I need. I'm sure you will not take this amiss and that a word in the right quarter will do the trick."

We apologised and withdrew to the sound of ringing bells, snapping scissors and the soft satisfying smooch of paste and paper.

"Look, mamma, he's got the operator crazy."

OPIUM SMUGGLED
BY RAILTHREE MEN CONVICTED

Receiving information that a large quantity of opium was being smuggled into the Colony on the Canton Express, a party of revenue officers under Revenue Officer Humphreys boarded the train on its arrival and seized 825 taels of raw opium.

Several men were arrested, three of them being charged before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning. They were Li Chun, charged with being in possession of 290 taels; Li Ping, who had 145 taels; and Fung Shui, who had 106 taels. They all pleaded guilty to the offence.

Revenue Officer Humphreys stated that two of the defendants had the opium tied up under the carriage seats. They were dressed in European style clothing, in order, he alleged, to avoid being searched.

Li Chun was fined $5,000 or 12 months; Li Ping received $3,000 or eight months and Fung Shui had $2,000 or six months.

FREE FIGHT

TWO SHANGHAI MEN IN DOCK

When two Shanghai men, Shu Ah-ye, a shoemaker, and Liu Fung-sang, a shop fook, appeared before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning charged with assaulting Chiu Yan-chang, a tailor, at No. 23 Hollywood Road, Inspector James applied for a week's remand and an increase of bail.

Inspector James:—The evidence is to the effect that the complainant was sitting down taking tea in a tea-house when a gang of ten entered and assaulted him by hitting him on the head with stools. There was apparently a free fight but I am informed this morning that it is quite likely that evidence will be forthcoming later to the effect that this gang threatened to assault the complainant if he did not come across with $50. That evidence was not available on Saturday night.

The defendants were remanded for one week, and their bail of $50 each was increased to $75.

MAN'S VIOLENT
BEHAVIOURASSAULT ON CHINESE
CONSTABLE

A Hoklo who assaulted a Chinese constable on Bonham Strand East in the early hours of Sunday morning, had to be carried by the constable. Detective-Sergeant Yip Chuk and Sergeant S. Slater, for one hundred yards along Gaze Street before he said he would be willing to walk the rest of the way to the Central Police Station.

Constable C. 61 Li Chu was on duty in Bonham Strand East when he saw the men peeping into the doorway of No. 15. He shouted at him asking what he was doing. No reply being forthcoming, the constable put his hand on the man's shoulder and requested a search. The Hoklo resisted this and struck the constable a blow on the nose. He was pushed off and fell back hitting his head against the wall. He made a second and then a third attack. He then grabbed the constable's left hand and bit it, and using both hands, prevented the policeman from drawing his truncheon. Releasing his grip, the constable blew his whistle and while doing so, the culprit took hold of his truncheon and struck him in the back.

Detective-Sergeant Yip Chuk came on the scene and, with the aid of the constable, managed to drag him to the junction of Wellington Street and Queen's Road Central, where they met Sergeant Slater. In Gaze Street, the man attempted to kick both the Chinese policeman and as a last resort they carried him bodily along Gaze Street for a distance of a hundred yards.

The man, Lam Kat, 32, unemployed, and the constable were both later sent to the Government Civil Hospital for treatment.

Lam Kat was charged before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning, when he was convicted on a charge of assaulting and resisting the constable in the execution of his duty and was fined $50 or one month's hard labour in default.

The defendant, whose head was bandaged, asked the Magistrate for passage money to go to Singapore.

CHINA'S OLYMPIC XI BEATEN BY MUD AND "REST"

LOCAL FOOTBALL CHATTER

THE PROTEST PROBLEM

COMMITTEE FACE STIFF TASK

NEWS & VIEWS

(By "Veritas").

THE death of Hongkong's 1933-34 football league season is fast approaching. In fact by this time next week rigorous mortis will have set in. The first division championship will have been settled (with relief) and the last competitive game of the season will have been played, with the Governor's Cup safely tucked away either at Caroline Hill or the P.A. offices.

AND it hasn't been a bad season at that. Programmes completed by schedule times; better displays of football in cup, shield and league; new trophy winners; a generally happier atmosphere on the playing fields.

TRUE we lost the Interport, but Syd, Strange can tell you that story better than I. True also, we have the threat of the league championship resting on the result of a protest regarding a technical offence.

ON the other hand there is no sensible reason why such an insignificant incident should be allowed to dominate a vital issue. It is probably not within my province to suggest to the management committee how they might reasonably act in connection with this.

BUT having considered the facts so far as they are known to me, I feel confident that the committee can adopt a line of action which, without ignoring the obvious demands of the ruling respecting the playing of ineligible men, will at the same time permit the league championship to be settled in the only proper manner.

ST. Joseph's cannot be expected to be asked to run the risk of suffering through the alleged misbehaviour of the Police. At the same time any decision which will prevent the Borderers from enjoying the opportunity they deserve of a final bid for the title will be rather regrettable.

AS I have intimated, there does seem to be a way out of the little problem, but the whole thing is up to the committee.

ONLY a few weeks ago the rather interesting situation arose of the Borderers being league leaders for 24 hours before being replaced by St. Joseph's. But a new record was established on Saturday. St. Joseph's recaptured the premiership by 4.30 p.m., and by 6.15 had lost it again.

AS my colleague "Crusader" indicates in another column, St. Joseph's did not show championship form, and only just scraped a win out of the Athletic. This impression received support from several onlookers with whom I chatted later in the afternoon.

NEVERTHELESS I do know for a certainty that if the Saints and Borderers meet in a play-off, the collegians will approach the event with perfect equanimity.

THEY feel they have the full measure of the soldiers, and that against their type of game, can always give a better account of themselves.

THERE were some shocks in other league games. The Recoile came into their own with a smashing victory against the Navy. Latter were below strength, but the Portuguese lads owe no apology.

NICE work by the Artillery, and a very fair showing by the East Lancashires. Truly was it a red letter day for the lesser fry.

RECREIO'S achievement did not allow them to dispose of the "wooden spoon". Other teams carrying the baby are: Second Division, Kowloon; Third Division, University.

SOUTH China and Lincoln shared the honours in the second and third divisions. The Chinese collected the premiership of the second division and were runners-up in the first, Lincoln won third and finished runners-up in the second.

A PART from the Club-Athletic match arranged for Tuesday, I have heard of no other rearranged league fixture for this week, which suggests that the East Lancashires, Police and Club (Continued on Page 10.)

How They Stand In The Tables

BORDERERS STILL ON TOP

The championship of the First Division was not decided on Saturday, the Borderers and St. Joseph's remaining on level points with a victory each on Saturday.

The full scheduled games have now been played and the championship rests on the result of the protest entered by St. Joseph's against the Police for playing an allegedly ineligible player.

Five Goals Against Run of the Play

KOWLOON'S REMARKABLE WIN OVER POLICE

(By Wanderer)

The Police must still be wondering how Kowloon managed to defeat them by five goals to one on Saturday. And it is doubtful whether Kowloon's supporters have got over their amusement.

For it was amusing—for everybody except the Police. Every Kowloon goal after Blake's brilliant first was greeted with the laughter—for every one of them was obtained against the run of the play!

If a record had been taken, it would probably have been found that the Police attacked for seventy-five per cent. of the game, and for long periods without a break. But there were times when Kowloon's goal seemed to be a charm of life, while at the other end, it seemed that Kowloon scored every time they broke away.

Things were not quite so bad as this, but very nearly so. The Police goal was nipped half a dozen times in the first half and three goals came.

Kowloon worried the Police but a trifle more after the interval and obtained two goals. It was a day on which they missed scarcely a single real opportunity of scoring, while the Police attacked almost incessantly and netted only once, this goal falling to Stephens, who was the one really efficient player in the police forward line.

CORD'S CLEVER DISPLAY

FAST FORWARDS HALTED BY SHEER CRIT

MULLANE AND GOSANO'S TROJAN SERVICE REWARDED

(By "The Pilgrim")

Beaten by sheer grit and a dragging, muddy ground, the choice eleven of China for the Manila Olympic fell before the Rest XI at Caroline Hill yesterday afternoon to the tune of 4-3.

But for a penalty goal, the Chinese would have been defeated by two goals and this in face of the fact that at one time they had the game in their pockets with the score at 3-1 in their favour!

Mullane and Gosano bore the brunt of the work and covered themselves with mud and glory.

But to Cord in goal went the real credit for saving the game for the Rest.

When all the defences were down and a goal seemed imminent, Cord was there with sure hands on every occasion and his uncanny anticipation has seldom been seen before to such astounding advantage.

The teams lined up in the following order:—

China Olympic.—Wong Ki-leung; Li Tin-sang, Lau Mau; Ho Chor-yin, Leung Wing-chui, Chan Chan-cheung; Tso Kwai-shing, Tam Kong-pak, Fung King-cheong, Lee Wai-tong, Ip Pak-wah.

The Rest.—Cord; L/Cpl. Mullane, S. Strange; G. Gamble, A. V. Gosano, L. G. Robertson; V. Elliott, E. Strange, Sgt. Malpas, L/Cpl. Ridley.

Mr. M. K. Lo, President of the South China Athletic Club, kicked off before a packed ground. Although the weather remained grey and threatening, no rain fell during the match but the ground was coloured with patches of mud and pools of water.

The first few minutes saw Tso flashing along the wing at a pace which none of the opposition defence could equal.

Twice he centred and twice the ball was cleared. Then Mullane sent Ridley away on a through pass and Wong Ki-leung had his first feel of the ball. The Rest forced a fruitless corner and another which was put out-side.

Gosano was working tremendously and was strengthening both Gamble and Robertson, the latter putting up a creditable show considering that he had been called upon at the last moment to play.

The Rest forward line was full of dash and E. Strange and Malpas gave Wong no rest when he had possession.

Mullane was again in the forefront when he stemmed a magnificent rush by Tso.

An equaliser was due from the Chinese forwards who were settling down to some fast exchanges. Only sound defensive work and the relief provided by Gosano kept them out.

SURPRISE EQUALISER.

The equaliser came in unexpected fashion after 20 minutes when S. Strange was penalised, the ball bouncing up against his arm when he ran across to intercept. Li Lai-tong gave Cord no chance with the kick and the scores were levelled at one all.

Pressing hard, the Chinese forced a corner on the right and Tso taking it put it into a bunch of players. Cord got his foot to a low corner shot but Fung King-cheung got the return and banged home a hard shot which had Cord unglazed and out of position.

The game was still fast and the ball went swiftly from either goal. The Olympic intermediates were combining well and feeding the attacking line constantly. The Rest were keeping steady but pressure was still coming from the right and Tam Kong-pak broke through, after Mullane had tackled three men, to score with a wonderful oblique shot which grazed the under side of the bar.

Immediately afterwards the Rest reduced the arrears by a scramble in goal resulting in Elliott scoring. The goalkeeper was sitting on the ground while the ball reluctantly rolled into the far corner.

Continuing to press the Rest had the great fortune to equalise a few minutes before half-time from a centre from Hocquard. The shot was not so difficult as that from Tam but the Chinese goalkeeper did not seem prepared for it.

The second half found S. Strange in better form and he and Mullane played well together, presenting a rock-like defence.

BRILLIANT START BUT DISMAL FINISH

HOW BORDERERS RETAINED THE LEAGUE LEADERSHIP

RECOVER FROM SECOND HALF FRIGHT IN CLOSING MINUTES

(By "Veritas").

CLUB 1 BORDERERS 3

If the display of the first ten minutes had been maintained, this would have been the best league match of the season. But an early goal to the Borderers had its repercussions, and seemed to encourage both teams to relax, so that the exchanges gradually lost their excitement, and finally became rather uninteresting.

The Borderers were far more pronounced winners than the score suggests, and they thoroughly deserved the points which allowed them to retain the leadership, and to force the championship issue to its farthest point.

At one time there was a very reasonable chance of the Club forcing a draw and thereby allowing St. Joseph's to win the title, but such a result would have been all against the run of the play, and nobody could deny the soldiers their spoils.

The first few minutes of the game produced dazzling football. First the Borderers swept down the field, and Hazlewood made Rodger effect a spectacular save from a terrific left footed drive which was going direct for the top corner of the net. The next minute the Club had taken the ball down by means of a clever forward line movement, culminating in Ernest Strange just shaving the cross-bar.

ENTERPRISING HAZLEWOOD. Then followed Hazlewood's opening goal, born of an amazing piece of enterprise. He challenged Sydney Strange for possession of a forward pass, and succeeded in hooking his leg round just as the ball was crossing the line and to lift it underneath the cross-bar from where it rebounded into the net. Rodger being left helpless, more by the unexpectedness of the whole thing, than the shot itself.

Then the Borderers began to rest on their laurels. The Club enjoyed a bigger share of the exchanges, and Mullane and Smith were often called upon to relieve dangerous situations.

Nevertheless it was by then comparatively tame football, and not even the interval inspired the players to any extent. Padmore, badly hurt in the first half, hobbled about during the second, but was a complete passenger.

Only after Drown had equalised, did the Borderers really make determined efforts. Up to then they had numbers of chances which they frittered away. Following the equaliser they took the game into their hands, and the Club had several extraordinary escapes. Jones, Fortey and Drown can all miss sitters, and indications were that the Borderers would defeat their own ends by over-energies.

Then Jones succeeded in making use of an opening a few yards in front of goal, and before the end, Fortey had added a third, the only decent piece of work he accomplished during the afternoon.

TEAMS COMPARED.

The Borderers in mid-field played fairly true to form right through. They were slightly more adept in their movements, and made ground more rapidly than the Club. Albeit, the forwards were below form in their finishing, an unusual number of opportunities being wasted.

Fortey was again completely out of touch, and if the Borderers should be called upon to play a championship deciding match, they will be well advised to make attempts to strengthen this department.

Fortey showed no idea of collecting passes (and he was extremely well treated with these), whilst his slow and obvious movements allowed Pote-Hunt and the Club rearguard ample time to rob him of the ball.

Hazlewood worked unceasingly and always to a purpose. At the same time he could have looked after Mathias a little more with possibly beneficial results. His continual distribution of the ball to Fortey often ruined some first-rate approach work.

Duncan was useful on the left wing, and Jones, apart from some failings in the shooting line played his usual game. Mathias was too neglected to be the real force he should be in the attack.

After Padmore's injury, the half-back line was none too secure, and a little more initiative and determination on the part of the Club forwards might have seen their collapse. Underwood was puzzled by Fowler's rush methods, and Davies not altogether happy against Howe and Baldwin, although the combination was not too impressive.

Mullane was brilliant in defence. Morrison again somewhat shaky. Smith made no errors and effected one or two exceptionally smart clearances.

STRANGE UNSUPPORTED. The Club attack would have been dangerous if Strange had been better supported. But Drown could not control the ball, and Howe failed to give his colleague any through passes, preferring to attempt to avenge round Mullane, an effort which generally ended in the ball going out of play. The wingers were only mediocre.

Pote-Hunt had some classy touches playing at centre-half, and was about the best half back on the field. His intelligently-crafted openings were too often wasted. Robertson played excellent defensive football, and behind him Gamble was a great stumbling block, continually thwarting Jones and never conceding an inch to Duncan. His interceptions were carried out with attractive abandon. Strange was very solid at left back, although inclined to lose sight of Hazlewood, who was always working towards the centre and therefore away from his opposing back.

Rodger was at times masterly, and saved the Club from a very much heavier deficit. He might have stopped the last goal, and again, if I may be permitted to repeat the criticism, he might easily have been beaten as a result of advancing too far out of his charge.

Seeing that it was at the end of the season, and so much depends on the result from the Borderers' viewpoint, it was not a bad game.

LUCKY SAINTS

POOR WIN OVER ATHLETIC

"PATTERN WEAVING" LOSES GOALS

B. GOSANO DULL

(By "Crusader")

On their exhibition against the China Athletic on Saturday, St. Joseph's do not deserve to win the championship. They won but got home only by a solitary goal scored late in the second half. If their forward line had had any idea of direction they should have piled on at least half a dozen goals in the first half and a similar number in the second.

As it was, they indulged in their usual pattern weaving, every man, with the possible exception of Costa, being guilty in this respect. Bernie Gosano had an off day; his displays in recent matches have shown a great dropping off in form, but his exhibition on Saturday must have been his worst for months.

David Leonard had absolutely no idea where the goal was, and did not care to find out. Ward hung too far back, and when the wings did get their centres in, he was not there. He obtained the only goal of the match, but it was from a rebound and there was nobody to stop it.

Rocha worked harder than usual at left in, but his lack of speed was a great handicap. Costa was the only man of the quintette to show any initiative, and had had luck with several first-timers, one of which beat the Chinese goalie but glanced off the post.

SHOOTING WEAKNESS.

A general weakness of the St. Joseph's forward line was their inability to shoot without first stopping the ball and placing it in position. This was folly when only ten yards separated them from the goal, but it was done all the same from start to finish.

The two backs, Souza and Gomes, played a sterling game. They refused to be intimidated by the swift rushes of the Chinese forwards, and characterised their clearances with some hefty kicking.

Perhaps the game last Wednesday against the Borderers was telling on A. V. Gosano, who at centre half, was not as prominent as he would have expected, but he covered a great deal of territory.

Of the wing halves, young Elms was better than Marques. Marques, in goal, had very little to do, but there were some anxious moments at the start and close to the finish when the Chinese pressed.

The Chinese had almost as identical weaknesses with their opponents. Their forwards had no definite plan of attack, and were too hurried in front of goal to be really dangerous. They had several chances to score, but frittered them away through dilly-dallying with the ball.

HALVES FIRM.

The half backs, Ho Chor-yin, Lai Kwok-chin and Ip Pang-fai, were the barrier between the College and goals. Lai Kwok-chin played a hard game, and reduced Leonard to a state of impotence, while Ip Pang-fai rendered Ward and B. Gosano, as a combination, almost valueless.

Wang Sik-ping, at right back for the Athletic, was the outstanding defender on the field. His bold interceptions time and again saved many dangerous situations. He kept a watchful eye on the lanky Costa, who found this defender too much of a handful.

Although he was not called upon to deal with many difficult shots, Li Kwok-chin nevertheless had a good day between the sticks. He showed a neat pair of hands, and never looked like being beaten until Ward bunged the ball into the net with him lying full length on the ground.

For more than three quarters of the game, play was listless and uninteresting, and it looked as if the game would end in a draw.

About a quarter of an hour from the end, B. Gosano sent in a pile driver from ten yards which had the Chinese goalie beaten, but Wang Sik-ping kicked the ball out from the goal line, and Ward rushing in, put it into the net.

Only a goal in the lead, the Saints were in danger of sharing the points even up to the last minute. They were certainly lucky to take both points.

HOME PROMOTIONS, RELEGATIONS, AND CUP FINAL

LEAGUE MATCHES.

(By "The Pilgrim")

AS I predicted the Chelsea and Arsenal match proved an attractive alternative to the Cup Final and 70,000 spectators saw the Pensioners play their High-bury rivals to a two all draw at Stamford Bridge.

BASTIN was responsible for both the visitors' goals, the first being a neat pass to James who connected successfully with his head, and the second coming direct from the winger's foot.

HORTON was as useful with his head for the Chelsea Club, he and Mills working up a wonderful understanding in the goal-scoring department.

THE arrival in First Division football of Hedley saw him

manoeuvre some strategic goals for the 'Spurs his centring enabling both McCormick and Hunt to find the net.

WEDNESDAY'S shooting was rather poor but they would have shared honours with a trifle more accuracy.

BOLTON whirlwind display took them a little further ahead in their goal average race with Preston who also won at home but by two less goals.

CUP FINAL POINTS.

(By "The Pilgrim")

MANCHESTER City won the F. A. Cup on Saturday for the second time in their history.

PORTSMOUTH figured in their second final losing 2-1. In 1929 Bolton Wanderers beat them 2-0.

OVER 100 special trains from the naval port and the Lancashire town carried the fans to the Wembley Stadium.

SOME enthusiasts who could not afford to support transport as well as sport walked from Portsmouth and Manchester starting some days earlier.

MANCHESTER City began the match favourites at 6/4. They were appearing in their second successive cup-final, a feat unequalled for 23 years.

AS both teams boast the royal blue as their colours, Portsmouth wore red on Saturday and the City appeared in white.

TWELVE hundred policemen were employed solely to track down sellers of fake tickets of which thousands had been printed and circulated.

THE King and Queen and the Australian Test team were among the 92,000 spectators who contributed £24,950 which is roughly $324,300.

READING too have gained on Queen's Park and if they can be sure of two points this week will be runners-up to Norwich.

COVENTRY made great pace with a 9-0 win which is the biggest for some weeks.

RANGERS have taken the lead from Motherwell and have thus secured double honours in Cup and League.

CITY'S MACHINE-LIKE PLAY BREAKS POMPEY

RUTHERFORD'S STORMS BRING EARLY LEAD

PORTSMOUTH'S THREE BACKS WERE NOT ENOUGH

Wembley, Press Box, 3.15 p.m., April 28.

Portsmouth had the English Football Association Cup in their pockets for a brief half hour at Wembley on Saturday when Manchester City lost the services of the injured Herd and with one goal down found the immaculate machinery of their team going to pieces under the stylish sweeping attacks of the southern men.

In the second half, the City played amazing football. A returned Herd flashed in shots from all angles; Tilson tested Gilfillan untiringly, and with Allen off the field with an injury for a brief time, the City equalised.

Brook dribbled four men before placing the ball for Tilson to smash in the second and winning goal of the match.

From the kick-off an atmosphere of electric tension pervaded the field packed with 92,000 fans from north, south, and London.

The teams lined up in the following order:—
Portsmouth:—Gilfillan; Mackie, W. Smith, Nichol, Allen, Thackeray; Worral, J. Smith, Weddle, Eason and Rutherford.

Manchester City:—Swift; Barnett, Dale; Busby, Cowan, Bray; Toseland, Marshall, Tilson, Terd and Brook.

There was no wind or sun to give advantage to the winner of the toss but when it was seen that Thackeray had called lucky, a great shout went up from the men of Pompey.

They took it as a symbol of victory.

Unperturbed the City men lined up. Tilson touched the ball to Marshall. Marshall put it out to Toseland and the winger made a brief run to centre the ball to Herd. The inside man after a little quick passing gave to Tilson who was right in the goal-mouth. He had the ball when Gilfillan leaped opportunely out the goal to rob him and save a certain score.

WORRAL FOULED.

After this fight Portsmouth kicked the ball upfield where Bray brought them some relief by fouling Worral just outside the penalty area. Jack Smith took the kick and wasted a good opportunity over the bar.

Settling into their stride, the southerners were playing magnificently. Their approach work was keeping the City defence on their toes.

Then Herd was carried off after being knocked out in a tackle. Undismayed the City carried the ball into foreign territory and went close to scoring when Busby drove in a hard free kick from the twenty-five yard line.

Both defences were sound and Portsmouth showed their mettle under a series of forward movements.

Rutherford flashed into speed on the left wing but his centre was fruitless as the inside men were not up with him.

At this point the fine working of the City intermediate line was valuable.

GILFILLAN AS SAVIOUR.

But Rutherford was irrepressible. He came to life again in a near goal effort which ended in a foul. Rutherford took the kick himself but shot wide.

As the weather became threatening the play lapsed into a number of minor infringements and free-kicks were frequent.

Gilfillan was the saviour of the side and when Toseland ended a brilliant solo run with a fast drive he found the lively Pompey custodian right on the ball.

After twenty-five minutes Rutherford was again despatched up the wing and tricking Barnett and Dale he swung a hard low right-footer which beat Swift's outstretched fingers to put Portsmouth one up.

Swift went full length in a great effort to save but the ball was too fast and well-placed to be stopped. Momentarily disorganised, Eason tested Swift again with a high accurate shot from forty yards and only Busby broke up their sweeping movements to consolidate victory in the first half.

Just before the interval the City forwards went up in a determined attack but the three back game into which Portsmouth dropped made it difficult for them to pass anything but high-droppers which Swift easily dealt with.

After the change over Swift was sorely tested by a glorious curving shot by Rutherford.

Brooks then received the ball, took it into the goalmouth before passing to Herd who swerved out, and with a lightning left-footer struck the upright.

He had Gilfillan absolutely beaten, and it was the very worst bit of luck for Manchester.

With the City dallying in the goal-mouth, these were anxious moments for Pompey.

ALLEN INJURED.

Portsmouth then made a dangerous breakaway, but Weddle shot wide from four yards.

Portsmouth seemed to have lost a little of their punch, and Gilfillan was again kept busy, a fast centre from Toseland causing him to jump to a difficult shot in the top left-hand corner.

A clever display by the speedy Manchester forwards broke down in the face of a rock-like defence and in a melee Allen was injured and carried off.

After the accident Manchester resumed their attack, and Herd sent in a terrific shot from 50 yards. Gilfillan was beaten, but the ball crashed against the cross-bar and rebounded into play.

TILSON, NETS WINNER.

In the 20th minute of the second half Manchester scored magnificently. Brook dribbled past four men and then passed out to Tilson, who cut in from the wing as Herd had done previously and netted with a great left-footed shot along the ground. Allen returned to the field in tense excitement.

Weddle headed over from a centre from Worral and the latter sent Gilfillan full-length to save magnificently in the corner.

Manchester crammed on pressure and had Gilfillan showing all he knew in saving two successive point-blank shots from Herd and Brook.

There were many hard knocks received and given and City supporters were chagrined at their team's bad luck.

Just before the last minute Gilfillan playing with unabated brilliance saved a six yarder shot from Tilson.

The game concluded with the City still pressing a defeated and broken Portsmouth.

THIS cup season has already produced £214,000 or $278,200,000 from the pockets of 3,125,000 fans.

NORTHEY IN FIELD AGAIN

LEADS NAVY AGAINST RECREIO.

(By "Wanderer.")

The most interesting feature of the match between the Club de Recreio and the Navy on Saturday was the reappearance in local football for the first time for about six seasons of Northey, ex-Kowloon player, and one of the finest centre-forwards in his prime ever seen locally.

Except for his characteristic touches and methods of weaving through a defence, he was hardly recognisable as the Northey of old, doubtless due to the fact that he had not kicked a ball for some time, while the spirit in which the Navy played as a whole did not encourage him to over-exert himself.

It was a remarkable game taking all things into consideration. The Navy had few changes from the side that defeated the South Wales Borderers, but they were thoroughly outplayed by the lowly-placed Recreio, who led deservedly 3-1 at half-time and finally triumphed by five goals to two.

The Navy backs could not hold the swift-moving Recreio attack, which might have scored several more goals with any luck.

"Y" HOLD MACAO TO DRAW

FAST HOCKEY FULL OF THRILLS

DEFENCE REIGN

The close of the hockey season saw the Y.M.C.A. eleven play a fine draw at Macao on Saturday, when the undefeated Hockey Club there nearly had their record spoilt in a one all draw.

Superb defences on both sides dominated the game and had not the home back line been steady as a rock the visitors would have gained a winning goal in the second half in which they pressed continuously.

The encounter, which was played before a huge crowd of spectators, was packed with thrills and was played at a terrific pace.

The Macao team's stick-work was a feature while their speed sometimes left the Y.M.C.A. defence sprendangled.

Sommer who played at centre half for the Y.M.C.A. team played a wonderful game, and together with G. Fowler and R. Bates was responsible for a magnificent display of defensive tactics.

F. Fowler in goal for the "Y" played at the top of his form and together with Selk and Farmer kept his charge from falling on more than one occasion, the goal-scoring against the "Y" being an unfortunate accident in that Fowler slipped while attempting to save.

The Macao defence was superb and had it not been for the two home backs, the Y.M.C.A. would have walked away with the game.

The game opened fast, the Y.M.C.A. taking the lead in the first ten minutes when S. Fowler scored with a magnificent shot which had the Macao custodian beaten all the way.

The Macao centre forward equalised two minutes later as a result of a combined forward movement which left the "Y" defence temporarily paralysed.

In the second half the "Y" enjoyed most of the play and had it not been for the Macao defence, they would have emerged winners. The game was one of the best seen in Macao this season.

LUNT'S REMARKABLE GOLF WIN

Annexes Championship After Six Down

London, Apr. 28. After his brilliant form in the early rounds, L. G. Crawford was generally expected to win the English Amateur Golf Championship at Formby to-day, but he was sensationally beaten by Stanley Lunt in the final.

Lunt was six down after the morning round, but in a remarkable rally, won the match at the thirty-seventh hole.

Craigengower Get Early Bowls Thrill

WEAKENED INDIAN TEAM BEATEN AT YACHT CLUB

Rain had some effect on the lawn bowls matches with which the Hongkong Lawn Bowls League commenced the season, on Saturday, but a full programme was played.

Craigengower "B" team made their debut in the senior League by winning against Kowloon Docks.

The Hongkong Football Club, newcomers to the Second Division were entertained to a heavy defeat by the Hongkong Electric Company. The Police and Civil Service also gained victories.

The Kowloon Bowling Green Club scored a double, being successful both against the K.C.C. by 11 shots, and the juniors by nine.

The Craigengower Cricket Club "A" team met the Civil Service on Saturday at their home green and emerged victors in a thrilling finish by the narrowest possible margin of one shot.

At one period they had a lead of about 20 shots on all three rinks and this looked good enough for an easy win. Then came a heavy shower and this put a different complexion on the game, due undoubtedly to the heavy state of the green which suited the Civil Servants.

Playing brilliantly, U. M. Omar's four (G. Duncan, L. C. R. Souza and W. F. Field) recorded a two shot win which gave the ex-Champion the points, Omar giving a fine exhibition while Field, who was promoted to the "A" team, gave good support. In this rink F. J. Jones skipped well enough but Omar was always a shade better.

J. Deakin who skipped his rink to a two shots win played good bowls during the afternoon while Luz his opposing skip was also in deadly form.

Always taking his time and great care in delivering his woods, B. W. Bradbury skipped his rink to a one shot win over Grimmer's four. Bradbury being very accurate in his draw while he was well supported by Beer his right hand man. Grimmer played well.

SECOND DIVISION.

YACHT CLUB WIN.

Playing at the Yacht Club the Indian R. C. were heavily defeated by the home team by a margin of 35 shots.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Solution to Previous Contract Problem.

To-day's hand is one of the old-timers. It has been used in contests and in series of problems, but a great many of my readers have been writing in about it, so I am going to give the answer to-day. If you have seen it before and have tried it, you have found it unusually interesting.

I am afraid, if you set this hand up for your friends and asked them to bid it, that no two of them would bid it alike. However, it is not a bidding problem, but rather one of play.

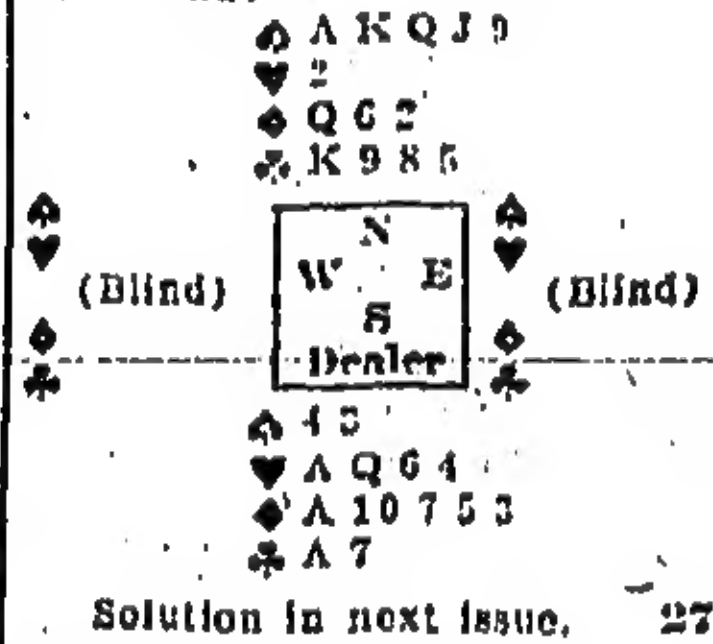

The Play

West opens the king of clubs, which South wins with the ace. He then leads a small heart and wins in dummy with the jack. The ace of spades must be returned and the ace of diamonds discarded by South. Now a small spade is played and trumped with the seven of hearts.

The eight of hearts then is led and won in dummy with the queen of hearts. The jack of spades is returned and trumped with the nine of hearts. Now the ten of hearts is played and won in dummy with the king. The ace of hearts is played and the king of diamonds discarded. Of course, the trump has been picked up and the queen, jack, ten, nine and eight of diamonds are all good in dummy. Thus the declarer makes his grand slam.

Today's Contract Problem

North is playing the hand at six spades. East opens a club. Should the declarer attempt to ruff the losing clubs? Or how would you play the hand?

Solution in next issue. - 27

CHINA'S OLYMPIC XI DEFEATED

Robertson had dropped back and playing his usual bull-dog game managed to get in the way of Tso's best movements.

For the first fifteen minutes the Olympic were doing all the pressing.

CONTORTIONIST CORD.

Wong Ki-leung had developed a slight limp from one of the tackles in which he figured.

A centre from the right came just right for Malpas's head and he made no mistake in giving the Rest the advantage at 4-3.

The Chinese pressed more strongly than ever and it seemed that the defensive policy of the Rest would prove their undoing unless their forwards could give them relief.

Gosno saved a corner by punting it into the now stand but play was continuously in the Rest area. With Cord on his toes or stomach most of the time the Rest goal experienced some marvellous escapes.

Ridley was blinded with mud and the ball was in a mael of player from which a goal seemed certain. The Chinese missed their opportunity again when Cord just got to the ball first and punted it over the bar.

A shot from four yards put found Cord still in front and the rebound went outside for another corner.

The game concluded with a bombardment of the Rest goal and up to the last moment it appeared that the game would at least be drawn.

Mrs. M. K. Lo presented medals to the winners and silver spoons to the losers, both eleven joining in hearty cheers for her and for the Club.

LOCAL FOOTBALL CHATTER

will finish the season with un-completed fixture lists.

THE annual dinner of the Hongkong Football Club on Saturday was one of the most successful events in the history of the club. Conviviality was the keynote, and it expressed itself in the speeches, which were of admirable length and sentiment; in the musical programme and in the comradeship of the company.

MR. M. K. Lo's reply on behalf of the guests was a typically neat speech, couched in ideal terms. Especially happy and appropriate was his reference to sport which he said knew no bounds in either class or race. Another happy thought was his definition of sportman: it couldn't be expressed in words, he said, but one could always tell the sportsman when one met him.

THE Rev. Lewis Bryan is quite the most indispensable after-dinner entertainer the Colony boasts at the present time. He kept the gathering uproariously amused for half an hour on Saturday night.

YESTERDAY'S match must have given the C.A.A.F. football selectors some food for thought. To be defeated by a Colony eleven, which although fairly representative, was not perhaps the strongest that could have been fielded, must have come as a big shock to the chosen Olympic players.

CONDITIONS, I am told, greatly affected the Chinese, who are never at home on the mud because generally speaking it is somewhat foreign to local football. Furthermore they lack the weight.

NEVERTHELESS I should not be surprised to see some alterations in the final line-up of the Chinese XI at Rizal Field next month.

CORD'S great work between the sticks only serves to emphasise how rich the Colony has been in goalkeeping talent this season. Whereas George Rodger stood out head and shoulders above his contemporaries some three or four years ago, to-day he is well matched by Cord of Kowloon, Smith of the Borderers, and before he left, Heath of the Lincolns, not to mention McHardy the Interceptor.

IF any vindication were needed of my fairly recent assertion that Gosno's ideal position is, contra-halt, his display against the Borderers last Wednesday and again against the Chinese yesterday, provides it. It was in 1930-31 that "A.V." appeared here for the Revere, and he played magnificent football right through the season.

INCIDENTALLY there was a good chance at one time of yesterday's game being called off. The heavy rainstorm which swept the Colony shortly after tiffin left the pitch flooded, and it was necessary to bale the water off the ground with blankets before the game could start. Within ten minutes the players were indulging on a quagmire.

THE friendly game between South China "B" and Canton, which preceded the big encounter, was more like a water polo match, and was quite farcical.

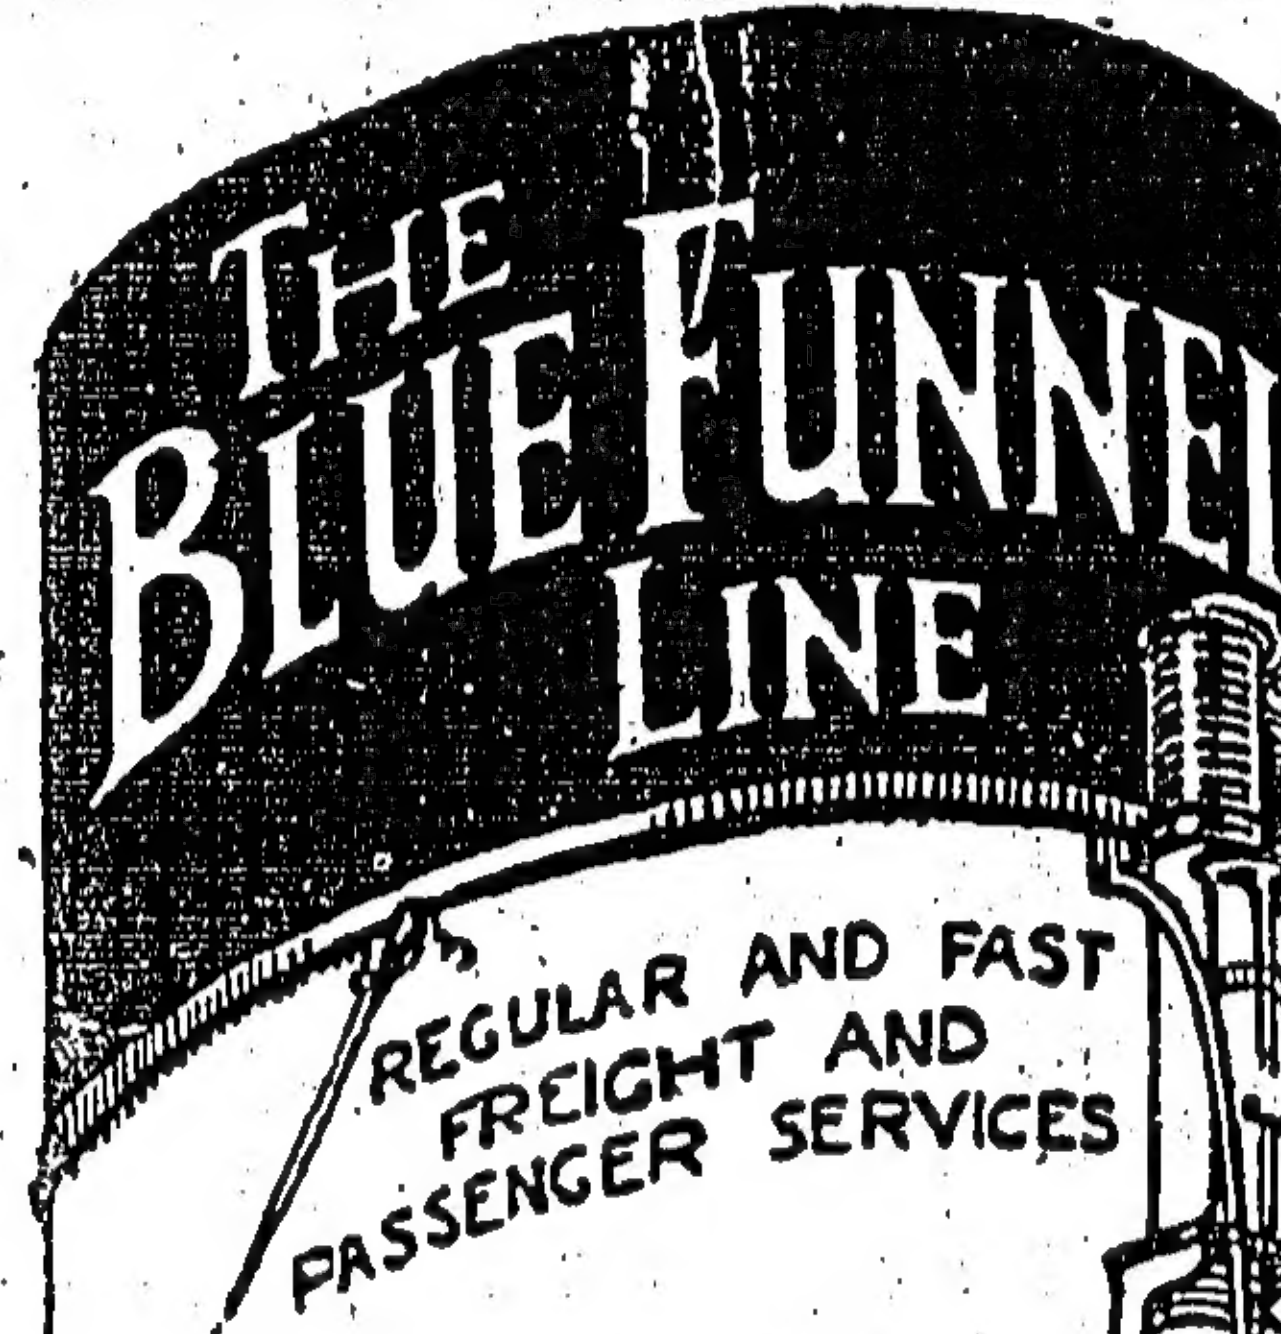

ONCE again Caroline Hill was the scene of another "hard luck" penalty. Syd. Strange was the victim. His "hands" was about the most accidental affair imaginable, but the full penalty extracted, and the Chinese were enabled to reduce the deficit.

UNIVERSITY GRADUATES AND CLUB ENTERTAIN

A Ladies' Evening in the form of a dinner dance, organised by the H. K. University Graduates' Association and the University Club, was held at King's Restaurant on Saturday night and was attended by about 80 members and guests. After welcoming the gathering, the President, Mr. R. C. H. Lim, thanked Miss D. Ma for her kindness in rendering a piano selection, and also Mr. Lau Man Hing and his "gang" for voluntarily supplying the excellent dance music.

Much of the success of the evening was due to the charming personalities of the hostesses, Miss A. Ho and Miss K. Lai, and the untiring energy of the Hon. Secretary, Dr. K. D. Ling. The dance terminated at midnight.

At the previous hearing the complainant was represented by Mr. Hin-shing Lo, who was instructed by Mr. J. M. Hall. The defendant was represented by Mr. F. H. Losby.

Mr. Lowe said he had taken over the case, and asked that the summons be withdrawn, as an agreement had been entered into between the parties.

BOURNEMOUTH NOVELTY

MR. F. AUSTIN'S NEPHEW TRIBUTED

MUSIC DIRECTOR CANDIDATE

Mr. Richard Austin, a nephew of Mr. Frank Austin, of Hongkong, is one of the dozen selected applicants for the post of Musical Director of the Bournemouth Corporation, in succession to Sir Dan Godfrey.

A son of Mr. Frederic Austin, who wrote and arranged the music for the new (Hammersmith) version of "The Beggar's Opera," he is at present conducting at the London Coliseum.

Altogether, there were no fewer than ninety candidates for the Bournemouth post, and a rather novel method has been adopted by inviting some of the selected applicants to conduct the Municipal Orchestra on successive nights. Not only musicianship and conducting ability are sought, but also personality and performances of character.

Mr. Hugh Bryan, writing in the London Daily Telegraph on March 21, referred to Mr. Austin's Bournemouth test as follows:—"On Monday, Richard Austin conducted a concert which sparkled throughout, but was neither blatant nor noisy at any point. The well-balanced programme included the 'Bartered Bride' overture, Dello's 'Song Before Sunrise,' part of 'Bartered Bride' overture, Dello's 'L'Apprenti Sorcier,' Quilter's 'Children's Overture,' and Bizet's

ASSAULT ON A WAITER

BOGUS CONSTABLE GAOLED

An assault in a public latrine off Yu Yam Lane on April 14 last, when an unemployed man demanded three dollars from a tea-house waiter, was brought to light in the Central Police Court this morning when Mok Kwai-yuen, was charged with demanding money with menaces and posing as a police officer.

Sentencing the defendant to six months' hard labour, and a fine of $50 or an additional month's hard labour, Mr. Macfadyen described the offence as particularly disgusting.

Detective Sergeant Goodwin, who prosecuted, said that although nothing was officially known about the defendant, he had operated with two others during the past month. There had been about seven victims involved and they were people of such respectable standing that they did not go to the Police Station to report the matter.

It was stated that defendant told the complainant he was a Police officer attached to Central Police Station.

While crossing a railway track in Kowloon City district, a boy, Chan Hoi, aged five years, was knocked down and received injuries to his left foot. He was sent to the Kowloon Hospital for treatment.
